GETTYSBURG, PA., WEDNESDAY, JULY 24, 1912

NO. 49

94TH YEAR

CAMP EDWIN H. STUART

THE N. G. P. ARE IN POSSESSION OF GETTYSBURG

The Camp City of Tents has been Officially Opened by Major General Dougherty.

Last week was a busy time on the field making ready for the coming of the National Guard of Pennsylvania. On Friday details of sixty from each regiment began to arrive and going to the camp sites started the work of the erection of tents. The tent city of the First Brigade on the Forney farm being the first to go up and be occupied. The Third Brigade on Mebrun farm at the Springs Hotel being next to be pitched and the last one of the Fourth Brigade on the Wible farm south of town. The First, Second, Third and Fourteenth Regiments of the First Brigade detrained Sunday at the Mummaburg Road. The Ninth, Twelfth and Thirteenth Regiments of the Third Brigade detrained on Monday in town. The Fourth, Sixth and Eighth Regiments were taken out the Round top branch and detrained Tuesday morning at nearest point to their camp. A total of 7100 guards are in camp.

Major General C. Bow Dougherty and staff arrived on Saturday and at once went to the Division Headquarters on the Mebrun farm and on Monday morning the official opening of Camp Edwin H. Stuart, the first camp to be called after a living man, took place, the Fourteenth Regiment Band playing "Star Spangled Banner" as the flag was raised at Division Headquarters. On Friday evening the Guards were first placed on duty in the town, being stationed at a number of points with headquarters for the provost guard at the Court House. A small squad of the State Constabulary have been sent here to help in the preservation of order.

In several ways the encampment is expected to be one of the most instructive to officers and men alike that has yet been held. A regular army officer who will act upon the staff of Major General C. Bow Dougherty has been designated by General Leonard Wood, Chief of Staff of the United States Army, as an instructor in camp for the purpose of reviewing and criticizing the work of the militiamen and also to dictate the application of regular army regulations in the conduct of camp and maneuvers.

Another departure from the usual routine will be the establishment of a field hospital to remain permanent during the war play instead of the regimental hospitals. The hospital corps of the various regiments will be enabled to receive instruction in this general hospital with the view of increasing their efficiency.

The following United States Army officers have been detailed to duty at the camp:

Infantry—Major C. S. Farusworth, Major Robert Alexander, Captains Isaac C. Jenks, Hugh D. Wise, Frank B. Watson, Charles D. Roberts, Edgar A. Frey, James B. Allison, James G. Hannab, E. Van D. Murphy, Lieutenants Ray W. Brabson, Townsend Whelen and Edwin Butcher.

Cavalry—Lieutenants Ronald E. Fieber and William H. Bell.

Field Artillery—Captain Oliver L. Spalding, Jr.

Engineers—Captains Curtis G. Otwell, Harold C. Fiske and Charles R. Pettis.

Signal Corps—Captain Elmer J. Wallace.

Medical Corps—Captains William R. Davis, Harry G. Humphries and Arthur N. Tasker.

The storm on Sunday played havoc in the camps, leveling tents and the Brigades arriving that evening found a rain soaked camp, but Monday and Tuesday were ideal days as far as weather is concerned and the vast majority of the Guards go under canvas in the finest condition.

Governor John K. Tener and Adjutant General Thomas J. Stewart arrived in camp on Monday afternoon and as there was no artillery in camp available for purpose the usual salute to the commander-in-chief could not be given upon their arrival.

The Guards are using a number of large motor trucks instead of farm wagons used at former camps. A fleet of thirteen motor trucks came up the pike last week.

The work of inspection will begin at once. The First Brigade being inspected Tuesday, July 23, the Third Brigade on Wednesday, July 24 and the Fourth Brigade on Thursday, July 25. Later in week will come the maneuvers and review. If latter is held it will take place in the Warner and Johns field south west of town and will be more easily reached than any other review ground.

Give Town Parked Boulevard.

Gettysburg has the opportunity to secure a parked boulevard for a very small outlay. Other towns pay big money to create them but one is offered.

sition should commend itself to the town authorities. The offer came before the Town Council at a special meeting last week.

Martin Winter proposed to the Council in view of the request of the property owners of the north end for cement crossings and graded and improved streets, that for the two fold purpose of beautifying a portion of our town streets and the saving to the borough of a considerable part of the expense incident to carrying out the improvements asked for by the north end residents, as follows:

In consideration of agreement on the part of the Town Council to make the improvements asked for below I will agree to furnish the rough shale needed for the purpose of street building, loaded on carts or wagons to be furnished by the borough, the same to be loaded on the extension of Broadway now being made from Carlisle St. to Harrisburg road. I will agree to employ at my expense a competent landscape architect to design a grass plot 12 feet in width to extend in the center of Broadway from Mummaburg St. to Carlisle St., a distance of about 1300 feet, this design to include flowers and shrubs. I will agree to remove so much of the said center of the street as may be necessary that a filling of 12 inches of top soil may be placed herein and I further agree to place the said filling of 12 inches of top soil therein, excepting such places as may be reserved for vehicle and foot use. I will further agree to grade this grass plot and set it in grass and place around grass plot at about 10 feet distant from each other granite or concrete posts with suitable railing or protection, to conform to the plans of the architect.

The borough was asked to furnish proper working grade stakes for the proper grading of all portions of the street, that the borough grade with rough shale a distance of 16 feet on each side of said grass plot and put on top of the shale grading a bed of crushed stone not less than four inches in thickness and on top of that a covering of crushed limestone and to be rolled and that the borough put down concrete crossings with proper iron gutter plates.

Twelve property owners signed an agreement to mow and keep in proper condition the grass plot without any outlay to the town.

The proposition was unanimously recommended to the Town Council by the Highway Committee and after discussion it was referred back to that committee to ascertain the cost of the outlay to the borough.

This town owes more to Martin Winter for the development of new residential portions of the town than any other citizen, perhaps more than all other citizens combined. This development has meant an increasing tax income to the borough. We constantly hear our people speak in highest praise of the work Mr. Winter has done for this place. It is a fact that he has received very little help and often it has happened no encouragement from the borough authorities in his improvement undertakings. The present Town Council is a progressive body and we believe in the present emergency will give Mr. Winter the recognition he deserves by the acceptance of his proposition. Let us have the parked boulevard.

The Council refused consent for a frame freight station for the Reading R. R. Co. This company has in some way obtained a wrong impression of the attitude of this town. The Council desires to be helpful, they want Railroad street to be open and passable, this is absolutely necessary for fire protection and use of street, and are willing to forward any improvement that the road may desire that would be commensurate with needs of the town. This town however needs something better than a cheap frame freight house. It needs both a substantial freight depot and a better passenger station, or better yet a union depot.

The Council discussed concrete curbs and practically decided upon an ordinance for the whole town by which borough would pay one third of cost of curb and this should be speedily put through so that the work of building concrete pavements may not be delayed.

New Edition of Guide Book
A new edition of "Gettysburg—What They Did Here" by the late Luther W. Minnich, the well known guide of this place, has been issued by the present owners of the book Hon. Wm. H. Hipton and Charles A. Blocher of this place. It is an illustrated book of 148 pages and sells for 25 cents. The Gettysburg Compiler Print shop is typographically responsible for the 9th edition of this well known battlefield guide book.

Military Mass.
Unique as it is rare will be the Field or Military Mass that shall be celebrated next Sunday at 11 a. m. in the Third Brigade Camp along the Fairfield Road. At the invitation of the officers, Father Dougherty of town has consented to hold the services and has arranged to have a number of very fine flunkers to assist the local choir. Gann's Mass in D, a real classical piece of music will be rendered. The vested choir boys of town will also take part as will some of the soldiers.

There will be only one mass in St. Francis Church next Sunday at 8 a. m. The second mass will be in the field at 11 a. m. In case of rain both masses will be in the church at 8 and 11 a. m.

Beautify the Square.

Nearly four years ago the Compiler advocated the laying of the Centre Square pavements in concrete and last week the final work on the south east corner was completed. It is an improvement that calls forth praise and approval. Our center square now presents a most attractive appearance with pavements of concrete and when the gutter has been finished and all rubbish cleared away, will give a new tone to the place.

Our people should not get it into their heads that the work is finished. The square could be made one of the beautiful spots in the town so as to give our own people and the stranger a joy such as only can come from a thing of beauty. Cement a few years ago seemed like a luxury, now it is a necessity, as the best and cheapest pavement. The square needs another present day necessity, and then further expressions of the Town Beautiful.

The square should be made beautiful with stone or metal posts of tasty design erected at the eight corners of the square and surmounted either with one large globe or a cluster of lights, like the lamp post in College Campus. The square would be most picturesque at night so lighted. Another ornament to be added would be drinking fountains for horses and people. They could be of a double pattern with one side toward the square and the other to the pavement. Two such fountains would answer every need.

There are people of means coming here who could be interested in helping to make the square beautiful. We have heard of a Boston lady enthusiastic on the subject of the possibilities of adorning the square. There must be citizens of the town who would care as a memorial to so ornament the square. And why not? The citizens of a town with all their cherished associations and memories and deriving their income largely from the "home town" are the ones naturally most interested in such useful and beautiful memorials. What more ideal way to keep green a family name associated with the town and its history than by such a memorial expressive of both use and beauty and that need not be expensive.

Manual Training in School.

A manual training department in the High School of this place has been made possible by the Parent-Teacher's Association. At their last meeting a committee was appointed to secure subscriptions for the purpose and at a meeting of the committee last week about 140 of the $250 to $300 needed had been subscribed and it was decided to go ahead. Prof. Burgeon will have charge of collections. The equipment of benches, tools and material will be purchased for the basement room in the High School building in which a concrete floor was placed by School Board. The room is well lighted. Every effort will be made to have this department ready by opening of school.

The work of raising the balance of the money needed will be continued. Miss Helena Cope is chairman of the committee and contributions can be handed to her, or any members of the committee composed of Mrs. D. P. McPherson, Mrs. Wm. Arch McLean, Mrs. J. Harry Holtzworth, Chas. Ziegler, Wm. Gilbert and P. R. Bickle or to Prof. Burgeon.

The benefits of manual training are incalculable and modern up-to-date schools have taken it up with enthusiasm. Prominent educators declare it is the ideal training along with present methods. The trained hand to go with the trained mind. There are few men and women living today but will confess that if they had had some training of the hand in drawing, at manual work, along mechanical lines they would be able to do more efficient work. It will be school work that will win the interest of scholars and will be a valuable asset in the making of better schools.

Courses of constructive work in drawing will be provided in the lower schools and leading up to the manual training department in High School and it is expected to give an hour and three quarters each week to the pupils understanding the work. Miss Nora Kieffer the new High School teacher will have charge of the department. She is adding to her previous experience by taking a course in manual training at Columbia University during the summer.

The town should get back of this movement with subscriptions, support and encouragement.

Engagement Announced at Reception

Miss Ruth Clutz entertained on last Thursday morning at her home on Seminary Ridge in honor of her sister Mrs. Peters of Pittsburgh. The guests were invited to the dining room for refreshments, where a very delightful surprise was in store for them. The room was beautifully decorated with that announced the engagement of Miss Clutz and Mr. Mark K. Eckert. Miss Clutz is the youngest daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Jacob A. Clutz and is a soprano soloist of note. Mr. Eckert, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Eckert, of Springs Avenue, is one of our town's most popular business men, and is owner and proprietor of the well known Eckert's Store on Centre Square.

Both Miss Clutz and Mr. Eckert are devotees of music and have always been prominently associated with Gettysburg's musical organizations.

Donation to College.

Dr. Wm. A. Granville, president of Gettysburg College has been traveling in the West in the interests of the College during the past month. He returns home to be present at the Pen-Mar Lutheran re-union on Thursday of this week, July 25, and will be here to make scheduled address at the Chautauqua next week. That Dr. Granville's trip was a success is shown by the following announcement of a donation received by him.

Chas. H. Boyer of Chicago, Manager of the Casualty Department of the National Life Insurance Company of America has donated $5000 to the new endowment fund of Gettysburg College in honor of his father, Rev. M. G. Boyer, D.D., who has just retired from the Board of Trustees of the College after a long and faithful term of service.

Called to Hanover Charge.

Rev. Dr. A. B. VanOrmer, of Shippenburg, has received an unanimous call to become pastor of St. Mark's Lutheran church, Hanover. This was the expression of the members of St. Mark's congregation at an election held in the lecture room of the church last week. The result of the election was ordered to be forwarded to Dr. Van Ormer by the church council, and if he accepts the call he will enter upon his duties about October 1st, when the resignation of Rev. Dr. C. M. Stock takes effect. Rev. Dr. Stock has been pastor of St. Mark's church for a period of 25 years.

P. R. R. Stop Liquor Sale on Trains

The Pennsylvania railroad last week took the most advanced step yet attempted by a railroad company in connection with the liquor traffic by discontinuing the sale of intoxicating drinks of any kinds on its dining cars on the lines east of Pittsburgh, one of the most important parts of the great Pennsylvania system. This step was urged upon the railroad by the Pennsylvania Anti-Saloon League.

The order was issued by J. R. Wood, general passenger agent for the eastern lines. H. H. Baker, superintendent of the dining car service, whose office is in the Pennsylvania terminal in New York, was the man charged with the duty of carrying it out.

Since Thursday all the diners attached to the through trains have been stripped of their stocks of liquor as they came into the headquarters at New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington or Pittsburgh.

Liquor selling on railroad trains, according to the railroad point of view, has been carried on with the object of making it merely an accommodation to patrons of the road. It was intimated that the business has not been a source of great revenue to the company and sometimes been a source of trouble.

JULY MARRIAGES.

PETERMAN-ADAMS—Rev. Robert E. Peterman, of McConnellsburg, Fulton County, son of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Peterman, of Hanover, and Miss Mary Adams, of Gettysburg, were married at the bride's home last Thursday, July 18, at a. m., by Rev. Dr. T. J. Barkley, of the Reformed Church, this place.

The groom is a graduate of the Hanover High School, following which he taught school for two years. He was graduated from Pennsylvania College, Gettysburg, in 1909, and completed the course in the Lutheran Theological Seminary here last June. Rev. Peterman is now serving his first charge at McConnellsburg. The bride was a class mate of the groom's in Pennsylvania College and after graduation was instructor of English and Latin in the Gettysburg High School, for several years.

Rev. and Mrs. Peterman have gone to McConnellsburg, where they will remain for a month, after which they will take an extended wedding tour.

The groom is a civil engineer. Mr. and Mrs. Fox, took a honeymoon trip by auto to the home of Mrs. Fox's parents, last week accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Smoogy, of Perth Amboy. The newlyweds expect to make their future home in the New Jersey town.

BOLEN-NAYLOR—On Wednesday morning the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Naylor, in Biglerville, was the scene of a quiet wedding when their

UNITED STATE DEMOCRACY

A SINGLE ORGANIZATION WORKING FOR WILSON

Story of the Meeting of the Democratic State Committee with Important Results of the Party.

The Democratic State Committee met last Wednesday at Harrisburg and became a united party under one banner giving a new hope and courage to every Democrat to carry Pennsylvania for Woodrow Wilson for president.

Every county was represented at the meeting, Hon. David H. Guise, Democratic County Chairman of Adams county attending, accompanied by S. Milley Miller. A program of peace had been arranged by which the Re-organizers were put into control to lead the way to a united and harmonious victory, the regulars retiring and promising all aid they could give.

George W. Guthrie, State Democratic chairman was re-elected Chairman by acclamation, and Librarian Ritter at this point addressed the committee, saying:

"A year ago we had an unfortunate difference in Harrisburg, which resulted in the holding of two meetings, at one of which I was elected State chairman. I will not review those troubles now, for they have all happily ended, and today peace is in this hall. I felt then that I was legally elected, but I will not discuss that. There is but one matter of importance before us, and that is to go forth with united front to victory. One good result of that fight in our party was that the microbe became infectious and the Republican party has a harder fight now than we ever had. There should be no sluggards in our ranks. I speak for those who have been with me, and I promise that we will give loyal support to the entire Democratic ticket, and I say with pride that we are a united Democracy today. There is no reason whatever why Pennsylvania should not at least be redeemed and return to the fold of the Democratic party. I will do what I can to effect that result, and those with me will give loyal support to the end that we may have a united and harmonious party and a great victory at the polls. With that end in view I tender now my resignation for the unexpired term ending in January next."

Chairman Guthrie taking the hand of Ritter said:

"Mr. Ritter, it affords me pleasure to extend to you the thanks of this convention."

Then Chairman Guthrie read the following telegram from Woodrow Wilson, which was received with cheers.

"My most cordial greeting to the Democrats of the Central Committee of Pennsylvania, with confidence of the result of the campaign in Pennsylvania."

Before the Committee adjourned Chairman Guthrie was directed to send the greetings of the Committee to Governor Wilson of New Jersey and Governor Marshall of Indiana, pledging the Committees earnest, faithful and enthusiastic support.

Chairman Guthrie in accepting the chairmanship spoke as follows:

"It is unnecessary to go over the past further than to say that this harmonious hour found its initiation in a desire of the Democrats of the State to think for themselves, unhampered by self-imposed rules that impaired their will. This great movement was not confined to Pennsylvania. It has spread all over the United States and will spread all over the world. It is the intention of the people to rule themselves for the interests of the whole, to make this a government of the people, by the people and for the people. The people themselves must be the supreme power. They are wiser as a whole concerning what is best for them than any one man. They must keep in their hands at all times, every function of the Government, so that in the end every man shall have an equal chance. That is what found expression in Pennsylvania and at Baltimore, breaking through the shackles and giving expression to the wishes of the whole country that they wanted Woodrow Wilson to be their leader in the Presidential fight. Let us put aside all personalities. Let there be no strife, except to do the utmost to return the people to their rights."

Vance C. McCormick read the final report of the Reorganization committee through whose work has come about the change in party management, and the committee stepped out of existence with the thanks of the State committee. The report recommended that the State chairman be authorized to appoint the following committees:

First—Committee on Finance.

Second—Committee on Publicity. To prepare plans for advertising and disseminating information.

Third—Committee on Campaign. To provide itinerary, arrangements for meetings, etc.

Fourth—Committee on Organization. To promote political campaign clubs and associations; and also a chairman for each congressional district.

After the meeting had adjourned Chairman Guthrie announced the appointment of the Financial Committee with H. B. McCormick, of Harrisburg, as chairman, and the Campaign Committee with James I. Blakeslee as chairman and Clarence J. Wertz of EAST BERLIN.

On last Friday between 2 and 3 o'clock in the afternoon lightning struck the large bank barn in Washington township, near Mulberry, owned by Jacob Markey and tenanted by his son-in-law Henry Julius. The latter was in the barn at the time with a load of hay. One man was on the mow and when the barn was struck and the contents of mow took fire he tried to put it out but it seemed to run all over the contents quickly and to save himself he had to get out of the mow in a hurry. All the stock in the barn was saved but the load of hay with wagon was demolished with the barn. Part of this year's crops were in the barn. There was some insurance on barn.

The grain is mostly cut around East Berlin. There has not been such a heavy hay crop at the lower end of the county for a number of years. New hay is selling at $8 per ton.

E. R. Gussman, wife, son and daughter, of League, Texas, are in town visiting with Mrs. Gussman's brother, Wm. T. Spangler. Mr. Gussman is chief dispatcher and superintendent of telegraph lines of T & B V. E. L. S.

ARENDTSVILLE.

Last Wednesday when Wm. Eyster was picking raspberries on the old vacated Eli Leech home he came across a den of snakes. He succeeded in killing a large rattler that had 13 rattles, five large copperheads and five more made their escape. The place is noted for snakes. Two years ago Charles Eicholtz killed fourteen copperheads in one day and quite a number of persons have been bitten by snakes on this farm.

About five o'clock last Saturday evening the barn on Ernest Bittinger farm at Boyds was discovered to be on fire. Mr. Bittinger was not at home but his wife succeeded in getting the horse out and George Beamer a near neighbor saved the hogs. The barn, hog-pen and chicken house were all burned, the origin of the fire is not known or whether he had any insurance on buildings.

Mrs. A. R. Lamberson of Tremont, Pa. is visiting in the home of her brother Mr. David Hess.

W. G. Hughes and family of Baltimore are the guests in the home of his brother M. H. Hughes in this place.

Lee Minter, wife and daughter of Jersey City, N. J. are spending some time at Amos Minter's, the former's parents.

Mrs. Dyer of Syracuse, N. Y. is visiting her aged mother Mrs. Sarah Merriam and her brother Dr. Leo Merriam in this place.

Edward Raffensperger of this place has been quite ill from nervous prostration during the last week.

IRON SPRINGS.

The School Board of Hamiltonban township met at Fairfield in the high school building on July 15 and elected the following teachers: Mt. Hope, Wilson Hummelbaugh; Mt. Pleasant, Zella Currens; Cold Springs, Lou Elta Sharetts; Pine Hill, Ethel McCrory; Weeping Willow, Chas. Frey; Fountain Dale, Ruth Moore; Furnace, Frank Watson; West Fairfield, Harry Pecher; Fairfield Station, Anna Landis; Union, Clara Moore; Tract, Alma Sloanaker; Orrtanna, Stella Linn. The schools will open on Monday, September 2.

Mrs. Elmer Bennett and two daughters, Louella and Margarette, visited relatives in Gettysburg last week.

Receipt for Killing Flies.

The following receipt, it is said, will kill all the flies about a place: Take a tablespoonful of 40 per cent. Formalin to a half pint teacupful of half milk and half water. The liquid is exposed in a shallow plate with a little sugar and a slice of bread in it to give more space for the flies to alight when drinking. One man killed 40,000 flies in one day with this dope.

All living rooms in houses, and especially the kitchen and dining room, sick rooms, and all hotels, restaurants and stores where food supplies are sold or stored should be fitted with screens to keep out flies.

Breeding places of flies should be abolished where possible by not allowing manure garbage or filth to accumulate or by screening it to keep flies away, or by treating it to kill the maggots. Manure treated with chloride of lime each day will not produce flies. Kerosene or one of the so-called soluble or miscible oils sold everywhere for spraying orchards will probably kill the maggots if the outer two inches is saturated with the liquid.

Pen-Mar Church Reunions.

Arrangements have been completed by the committees in charge for the three big church reunions to be held at Pen-Mar during the present summer—those of the Reformed, Lutheran and Presbyterian congregations in Southern Pennsylvania, Maryland, West Virginia, Virginia and the District of Columbia. The programs have been made up and all other details worked out. The Reformed reunion will be held Thursday, July 18, the Lutheran, Thursday, July 25, and the Presbyterian, Thursday, August 1.

The arrangements for the 23rd Annual Reunion of Reformed Churches in Maryland, Southern Pennsylvania, District of Columbia, West Virginia and Virginia are completed. The date is Thursday, July 18th, 1912.

The different committees have concluded their work, and nothing has been left undone that will make this the best Reunion yet held.

The "All College Hour" will again be one of the features of the day. Rev. C. H. Ranck will have charge, assisted by able helpers, and it is hoped by them that all college people will take part.

The celebrated Wayne Band will give a concert and lead the singing. Mrs. Shaffer, of Boonsboro, Md., will be the soloist.

The address on the subject of "Enthusiasm" will be delivered by Mr. Harry E. Paisley, of Philadelphia, Pa., and will be worth listening to.

A special train from York will stop at all local stations, leaving Gettysburg, at 8:50. It is suggested that all Reformed people from this section take this train at their nearest station.

Old fashioned Lutheran fellowship will be a feature of the annual reunion of the Lutherans on July 25. All arrangements for comfort, recreation and instruction have been made and several thousand persons are expected to be present. The Baltimore choir will render music during the services. There will be addresses by the Rev. Dr. W. A. Granville, president of Pennsylvania college, Gettysburg, and the Rev. J. M. Reimensnyder, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt has been invited and may be present. The surplus above expenses will be given to the Nachusa Orphans' home and the Cold Springs Mission, the latter near Pen Mar.

William T. Ellis, Philadelphia, will be the principal speaker at the Presbyterian reunion. His theme will be the Americanizing of the World. The Aeolin quartette Harrisburg has been engaged to furnish music together with the Pen Mar orchestra.

Two Mt. Joy Twp. Barns Burned.

Mt. Joy township lost two barns by fire last week and neither from lightning. A strange coincidence is that the fires originated at about the same hour of the day, early in the morning, between 4 and 5 o'clock.

On last Friday morning Jesse Lemon, the tenant on the farm of Charles Basehoar, situated about two and a half miles from Littlestown, on the pike, had gone to the barn and was in the act of milking when he heard a peculiar cracking noise and investigating discovered that the barn was on fire. He at once went to work to get the stock out of the barn. The fire quickly spread, making the work dangerous. He was under the impression he had saved all the stock, but later discovered that his most valuable horse and a fine calf were consumed with the barn, with all its contents, about 14 tons of hay, his wheat crop and all his farming implements. The loss of building and contents is estimated at over $2,000.

Early Sunday morning Mrs. Frank Hartlaub, living about two miles from Two Taverns, on road to Boonerville, was awakened by a cracking noise to discover that their barn was on fire. Quickly arousing the family they went to work to save the live stock. In this they were successful. Mr. Hartlaub losing beside barn, chicken house and hog pen, all his wheat and hay and the meat of eight hogs, some harness and farming implements. Mr. Hartlaub carried some insurance. Mr. Hartlaub was doubly unfortunate for in working about the burning barn he trapped upon a nail and was compelled to have medical attention for the injury. About twelve years ago the barn on same farm was destroyed by fire. Loss was about $1500 with $800 insurance in Littlestown Fire Insurance Co.

The origin of these two fires is unknown, two explanations being offered, one that the buildings were set on fire, and the other that they were due to spontaneous combustion.

WATER BREAKS ILLEGAL

Supervisors Should Remove Them to Save Damages.

The Supreme and Superior Courts of Pennsylvania have recently declared the law of the land on matter of Water breaks on roads and it is a matter for every Supervisor to take notice of and immediately give orders to their road masters to remove. A water break across a road is negligence on the part of the township. Water by modern methods is not thrown from one side of the road to the other by surface breaks. Roads are rounded to the center and the water is made to run toward the side and if water must be carried across the road an underground pipe will do the trick without causing damage.

One of the cases went up from Wyoming County. A man driving a wagon went over a water break so that he was hurled from his seat and fell into the road and the jury returned a verdict of $947 damages. The township tried to take the position that the question of necessity for a water break was one entirely for the officials of the township to decide and not for the jury but the Court held that while the Supervisors were the proper persons to determine whether a water break was necessary but in putting it there they were bound to construct it in such a manner that it would not be dangerous to travel.

It was also contended that the water breaks had been in the road at the same point for years but the Court held that time did not sanction unlawful obstructions and that water breaks were not considered necessary by modern road builders.

The law casts upon the Supervisors the necessity of keeping a public road at all seasons clear of all impediments to easy and convenient passing and travel, and to keep safe was construed to keep free from danger from water breaks that would cause injury.

In the case referred to the township had to pay nearly $1000 for damages without counting costs and attorney fees. Any supervisor could easily learn the danger of water breaks by taking a ride in the rear seat of an auto and as he passes over the water breaks he will feel the momentum that frequently is sufficient to hurl one from the car. Accidents have been heard of where occupants of rear seat of covered automobiles have been thrown against top of cars and were cut and injured and every day a water break remains on the public road is a menace to the treasury of the township, for it may be called upon to pay hospital bills and damages for injuries received by reason of a water break. A small sum will remove every water break in a township and provide side drainage, and make traveling safe. When the accident comes caused by the water break it may take four or five times, perhaps ten or twenty times the amount that would have been removed the breakers to pay the damages.

Supervisors get busy. Remove the water breakers. The highest Court in the State has so ordered.

Big W. M. Equipment.

Officials of the Western Maryland railroad say that when the Cumberland-Connellsville extension is opened for traffic that the company will be fully able to take care of the increase in freight shipments by reason of additional motive power and an almost entire new equipment of rolling stock.

Recently the Western Maryland officials placed contracts for about $4,000,000 new equipment, most of which will be ready for delivery during this summer. They awarded the contract of building 2,500 freight cars as follows: To the American Car and Foundry Company, five hundred box cars of forty tons capacity; Pressed Steel Car Company, five hundred steel hoppers of fifty tons capacity and five hundred gondolas of like capacity; Standard Steel Car Company, five hundred steel hoppers of fifty tons capacity and five hundred small gondolas of forty tons capacity.

These cars will cost about $2,000,000 and will complete the present needs of the company in the estimated equipment required when a junction of the Western Maryland is made with the New York Central, which will be done next spring.

The company had previously ordered twenty-five locomotives and twenty-nine passenger and mail coaches. The new cars, when available, will also do much to aid the coal operators along the line of the road in meeting the increased demands for fuel. For this reason it was given somewhat as a rush order and deliveries are contracted for in July and August. The filling of these orders will place the Western Maryland in excellent shape, both as regards motive power and rolling stock.

THE DEDICATION ADDRESS

AT UNVEILING OF MONUMENT OF NEW HAMPSHIRE BATTERY

George I. McAllister of Manchester, N. H. Delivered the Oration on the Occasion.

Among the features of the dedication June 3 of the monument at Gettysburg in honor of the First New Hampshire Light Battery, which took part in the repulse of Pickett's charge, was the oration delivered by George I. McAllister of Manchester, New Hampshire which was as follows:

Mr. McAllister's Oration

Captain Piper and Veterans: I thank you for inviting me to speak to you, on this beautiful lawn, in this national cemetery, where you fought so valiantly and where Everett and Lincoln delivered their eloquent speeches in 1863.

This is an age of anniversaries which are mile stones where we can pause and the busy activities of life and contemplate the achievements and victories of the past, consider the comforts and conveniences of the present and prepare for the future welfare and prosperity of our kindred, friends and country.

They help to develop and intensify the spirit of fraternity and patriotism that is so strong and helpful in our Union. They strengthen our devotion to the eternal principles of liberty, justice and truth, upon which our mighty progressive republic is founded and by which it is governed.

The American people have had many anniversaries within the last half century which have been of great benefit to them by enabling them to become better acquainted and affording them an opportunity to learn to love and respect the ability and manliness of each other, to work together for country and humanity and to demonstrate that in union there is strength.

This is the forty-ninth anniversary of one of the decisive battles of the world, which was fought here by two great American armies, during three memorable days, in which the rebels were defeated and compelled to return disappointed and disheartened to their old camping grounds south of the Potomac.

The great rebel invasion of the north, under the command of Gen. Robert E. Lee, was a sad failure. The armed hosts of treason and secession were beaten at Gettysburg.

It is eminently proper that some of the citizens of New England should on this day assemble on this famous battlefield, sacred to every American, and recognize the valor, recall the heroism of our brave soldiers who were members of the First New Hampshire Battery of Light Artillery which fought here with distinguished bravery, and pay a grateful and heartfelt tribute to those of them who survive and to the memories of those who have died, and to emulate patriotism.

The Second, Fifth and Twelfth Regiments of Infantry and the battery and two companies of sharpshooters, all from the old Granite State, performed many deeds of valor and covered themselves with glory by their bravery and skill as fighters in that gigantic struggle on this battlefield forty-nine years ago.

What hallowed memories the anniversary recalls and refreshes. Every heart throbs with sentiments of patriotism and affectionate remembrance. People admire bravery and heroic daring. They like to celebrate great events and achievements and to honor virtue and courage.

Our visit to this historic battlefield and to this famous cemetery on the crest of this ridge where our New Hampshire battery fought ably, bravely and effectively on the second and third days of July, 1863, and where our immortal President Abraham Lincoln, on November of that year delivered his eloquent speech of dedication that will never be forgotten, will strengthen our love of country, increase our devotion to the Union and intensify our patriotism.

We must not forget that eternal vigilance is the price of liberty, and that we must be patriots.

Patriotism is, and always has been, the distinguishing characteristic of the people of New Hampshire.

They have been true lovers of liberty, and have always willingly upheld and vigorously defended their rights and those of their country.

Veterans: Fiftyone years ago last April the booming of the rebel cannon trained on Fort Sumpter, resounding across the sea and the land, aroused the people of the royal north to arms.

Their motto was "The Federal Union—it must and shall be preserved."

In response to the calls of Abraham Lincoln for troops, our patriots, whom we especially honor today, left their business, farms, friends, homes and the loved ones to whom they were bound by the strongest ties of friendship, hurried to the front, to give the full measure of their devotion to the Union and for human liberty.

The alacrity and willingness with which they obeyed the summons to arms, proved them to be true patriots.

Some of them were killed on bloody battlefields of carnage; some fell by the wayside, exhausted from weary marching; some died after weeks and months of suffering in hospitals; while others were cruelly murdered by neglect and starvation in those infamous prisons at Andersonville, Belle Isle, Richmond, Salisbury and other places.

New Hampshire was patriotic during the war.

She sent 33,000 soldiers or more than one in ten of her population to the front to help save the Union.

Her citizens put country above party and nobly supported the union cause. They furnished their quota of men to the Union armies and the Union navy. They contributed generously for the support of the families of their soldiers.

My friends, we have reason to feel proud of the honorable war record of the gallant veterans and their deceased comrades of the Granite State, who fought so valiantly in that long and terrible war. Wherever they were stationed they did their duty ably and well. They were true to New Hampshire and to the Union.

Our sailors covered themselves with glory in many a hard fought naval fight under the able and successful leadership of Porter and Admiral Farragut.

This is indeed a memorable day for the survivors of our battery who are present under the command of Sergeant Samuel S. Piper, who has worked hard and persistently for many years to secure the erection of this beautiful monument, which is a testimonial of the people of our state for the splendid services rendered by this battery to the Union at Gettysburg. Our hearty congratulations are tendered to him for the very successful result of his labors for his beloved battery. Our people were friendly to the proposition but slow to act. The citizens of our state are justly proud of the brilliant and honorable war record of this famous battery, which was recruited and organized at Manchester in August, 1861, and mustered into the service of the United States Nov. 25 of that year.

There were 155 original members, and 151 recruits, substitutes and conscripts afterwards became members.

This splendidly equipped six-gun battery under the command of Capt. George A. Gerrish, left Manchester for the front on November 1, 1861. It was a grand, good military organization, well drilled and ready to fight for the Union.

A large majority of the men were good Yankees of New England. They were courageous, faithful, reliable, intelligent and intensely patriotic. Very few of them were more than thirty years of age. They were fair representatives of that class of men who then constituted the bone, sinew, brains and chivalry of the Union.

They made first class soldiers and were true to themselves and their country.

In the terrible battle of the Wilderness General Hancock asked Captain Edgell if he could hold the rebels in check with this battery. The reply was, "We shall try to do so," and that reply was characteristic of the members of this military organization. They always did their best when called upon.

It became a four-gun battery in November, 1862, by order of the war department. It was in the celebrated army of the Potomac and served under Generals McDowell, McLellan, Burnside, Pope, Hooker, Meade, Reynolds, Hancock, Sickles, Hunt and the great chieftain, Grant.

It took part in twenty-seven battles: Rappahannock Station, Sulphur Springs, Groveton, Second Bull Run, Antietam, Upperville, Fredericksburg, Chancellorsville, Gettysburg, Brandy Station, Mine Run, Wilderness, Spotsylvania, Po River, North Anna River, Sheldon's Cross Roads, Kolopotomy, Cold Harbor, Boyden Plank Road, White Oak Road, Sailors Creek, Deatonville, Farnaville, High Bridge, Lee's surrender. Several of these battles were of the largest and most important fought during the war.

At Second Bull Run two members of the battery were killed several were wounded and Captain Gerrish and eleven men were taken prisoners. The first gun on the Union side at the great battle of Antietam, was fired by this battery.

At the expiration of the three years' term of enlistment, Sept. 25, 1864, forty-two of the original 155 members re-enlisted. Thirty-three of the original members and thirty-one of those who afterwards became members of this battery during the War of the Rebellion, are living.

This battery was engaged in several of the greatest battles of the war, and its members did a great deal of hard fighting, and endured many difficult trials and much suffering. It was in the service three years and nine months.

It arrived at this battlefield at about eleven o'clock in the forenoon on the second day of the battle, and was parked about a quarter of a mile in the rear of the apex of the Union lines which was in this cemetery. Five hours later it was ordered to relieve an Ohio battery here.

It was a dangerous place, less than one thousand feet from the rebel lines, which reached around here on three sides, so that they could concentrate their fire on this exposed position on this rise of ground.

The rebel fire was very heavy in front of this place until dark, and then for several hours the enemy made a determined and persistent effort to capture Culps hill on the right.

The firing ceased at 11 o'clock the next day, and our battery was ordered to the rear.

At one o'clock that afternoon the great artillery duel began and lasted for two hours. About 300 cannon were used. At two o'clock this battery was ordered back to its former position here, and in the midst of a terrific shower of iron hastened here and during the next hour it worked its guns trained on the enemy to the best of the ability of the men, who received a handsome compliment from General Howard for their efficient work.

Then came the brave and brilliant charge at Pickett's division fourteen thousand strong of the rebel army, up the hill toward this spot and the group of trees near by. Our men in this battery could see Pickett's soldiers advancing toward them. The guns of our battery, and of other batteries on the firing line, were used with deadly effect on those charging rebels. The Union infantry charged them with great vigor and bravery. Their lines wavered, the slaughter was terrible, thousands fell and thousands more surrendered, and the battle was won by the Union army.

General Pickett's division of the picked veterans of the Southern army was practically destroyed. General Lee was defeated and victory perched on the Union banners.

Our battery, on the firing line on the crest of Cemetery hill, in the midst of great danger and death, commanded by Captain Edgell, won imperishable renown for its bravery, skill and intrepidity, in this great battle, in which about 200,000 men were engaged, and 6334 were killed. About 50,000 men of both armies were reported killed, wounded or missing in this battle. Many of these reported missing after the battle were taken prisoners.

In our Revolutionary, Mexican and Spanish wars only 3,331 men were killed in battle, while 6,334 were killed in the battle of Gettysburg. It was certainly a battle of the first magnitude.

Veterans: You and your comrades had to fight men of the same blood, foemen worthy of your steel here. It was a Greek meeting Greek. Brother against brother. A gigantic struggle where valor counted. You Union soldiers had the advantage for three armed is he whose quarrel is just.

The legislature of New Hampshire, appreciating the great work performed by our battery here in defending the Union line against the fierce and determined assault of the rebels and of its magnificent war record, has appropriated one thousand dollars for the erection of a suitable monument here in its honor.

We have assembled heretoday to dedicate this handsome monument of artistic design with appropriate exercises.

This splendid monument of New England granite is a fine specimen of the artistic skill and superior workmanship of its master builder. It bears the inscription: "On this ground Edgell's First New Hampshire Battery of Light Artillery fired 733 rounds of ammunition in July 2nd and 3rd, 1863, at Gettysburg, Pa. July 2nd, 1912."

Long may it stand in this national cemetery as a monument to the bravery, heroism and patriotism of the gallant members of our battery who won imperishable renown by their bravery and intrepidity on these perilous heights in that awful battle. Many of them are dead.

"On famo's eternal camping ground Their silent tents are spread, And glory guards with solemn frown, The livid oak of the dead."

Five of those now living Samuel S. Piper, W. B. Underhill, George A. Shepard, Charles P. Cox and Charles Chickering are present to assist in the interesting services of the dedication of this monument.

Veterans, what emotions must fill your breasts, as you here recall the scenes and incidents of that awful and deadly struggle in which you took an active part on this very spot, forty-nine years ago today.

Your hearts must be filled with pride and thanksgiving for the great victory you helped to win here for the Union. We welcome you here and are glad to meet you on this anniversary. We thank you for the work you performed so well in that blood battle. It certainly was a time that tried the souls of men. You are heroes, you stood the terrible test and are patriots.

Venerable veterans, it is our fondest hope and most earnest prayer that your lives may be spared for many years, so that you may enjoy the blessing of liberty in the Union you helped to save from destruction by the rebels. May the blessings of bounteous heaven be abundantly showered upon you.

My friends: The rebel raids on his raids no more. Sectionalism is a relic of the past. The flag of our republic floats over a reunited country, without a stripe erased or a star obscured and having forty-eight stars in its blue field.

We have enjoyed forty-seven years of profound peace in the United States since Appomattox. We have made marvelous progress in everything that pertains to national power and glory.

Citizens of the republic: Let us cherish and preserve the glorious heritage of constitutional liberty, bequeathed to us by our illustrious ancestors, and saved and guaranteed forever by the blood and treasure of the loyal north in the longest and mightiest war in modern times. Let us be patriots and keep the spirit of '76 alive and alive. The past is safe. The future is bright with promises.

We confidently believe that our mighty republic, pursuing the even tenor of its way down corridors of time, gathering strength and glory in cementing in a strong bond of friendship the people of the north and south, teaching brotherly love, including patriotism, exalting home, elevating and ennobling manhood and womanhood, promoting education and advancing a higher and better civilization, will be an imperishable monument to the memories of the sailors and soldiers of the Union army and navy in the war of the rebellion.

WOULDN'T TAKE HIS WORD

Health Bulletin Given Out From Pulpit Only Arouses Skepticism In One Mind.

"The new preacher in our town was progressive enough to enliven even that humdrum performance of reading the notices of the day," said the suburbanite. "After mulling over the services for the coming week, the dates of two approaching marriages and the purpose of the day's collection, he said in perfectly distinct tones:

"I am glad to announce that Mrs. Hollis was able to sit up a while last evening, that a very favorable report was telephoned in this morning from the sick room of Mr. Grant, and that the temperature of Mr. Williams has been reduced to 98."

"Then he preached a sermon, but nobody knew what about, for all the congregation was revolving in their minds the physical condition of our sick parishioners. Many, like myself, went away believing that the minister's innovation would be of inestimable value to sick folk, who are pestered to death by people inquiring how they are; of inestimable value, that is, unless too many of the congregation shall share the skepticism of the woman who walked down the aisle ahead of me. Said she:

"I don't believe that Sarah Hollis was able to sit up last night. I was there at noon and she couldn't lift a finger then. I'm going right up to see about it."

ALL HIS GLORY OF THE PAST

Actor Who Has Once, Lost Favor of the Fickle Public Seldom Able to Regain It.

He was gaunt and drawn, a striking contrast to the rather heavy face, the confident air, and the swagger, which had extended even to the buttons on his coat but a few years ago. At that time ranting melodrama was a popular art, the star an elaborately built piece of mechanism, and this man the star's chief support.

His fate was a common one, dramatically emphasized by his outward appearance. Like a dilapidated sign flapping in the wind, his threadbare "trot" frock coat told the tale of former glory, while the resignation that poured in a flood light of despair from his moist eyes attested that that glory would never be renewed.

Like the old profile engine which was wont to thrill the gallery with its factitious bombast, and which now rotted, forgotten in the storeroom, this poor human, whose art at its best had been but a "profile" one, was forgotten and wasting, waiting like the other to be swept out in the great mass of uselessness, his ephemeral mission ended, his purgatory, nature's storeroom, a waiting room of poverty and despair, lightened by a rapidly fading ray of memories—memories of a short-lived limelight popularity.

Double His Assessment.

"Would you," inquires the Greenwood Journal, "give the deaf man a verdict, if you were on the jury, who is suing for damages because he alleges that he is paying for preaching he can't hear?"

Personally we'd be inclined to render a verdict after the fashion of the immortal Paddy Divver. As the story goes, a loyal benchman of the clan-named Danny, was arrested for an enthusiastic and successful assault upon an innocent third party. It was just before election, and Danny sent for his leader. The leader heard Danny's story and went to see Paddy Divver.

"Judge," he said, "I wish you'd be light on Danny. He's a good fellow, and can help us a lot in the election."

"All right!" said Paddy, "I'll give him thirty days."

"But that will keep him in jail over the election!" the leader protested.

"H—," said Paddy, "I mean the plaintiff!"

As to Discipline.

The young teacher should learn and the older teacher remember that for every teacher that fails on account of lax discipline, there is another who fails on account of over-government. Some teachers assume the same attitude as the policeman who found two men talking on the street corner and ordered them to move on, as there was an ordinance prohibiting crowds gathering on the streets. One man remonstrated, saying that two did not make a crowd. "One makes a crowd, if I say so," answered the policeman.

A teacher who assumes that whatever he says is law, and it is law because he says it, is making a sad mistake. When the pupils have a definite aim to do and the teacher has a definite aim in what he does, there will be no time nor occasion to "maintain order." It will maintain itself.—Missouri School Journal.

Cautious Through Experience.

"Come over and play with my little boy, sonnie," called the pleasant-faced new neighbor to the solemn-faced urchin on the fence between the two lots.

"Is your little boy sick of anything?" came the child's earnest question.

"No, indeed, sonny. Why?"

"'Cause I've had my tonsils taken out, an' my adenoids removed, an' my appendix cut out, an' I've been vaccinated an' serumized for typhoid an' spinal meningitis, an' I've had anti-toxin injected, an' I do hope I won't have to have anything done to me this year, so's for a little while I can have a bit o' fun!"

TRY THIS

"RICHMOND" Suction Cleaner

IN YOUR OWN HOME 5 DAYS FREE

We want every woman in America to have the opportunity to try the "RICHMOND" Suction Cleaner in her own home. And to show our unbounded confidence in the machine, we've decided to send it out on 5 days free trial.

Use it as much as you like. Clean your carpets and rugs, your upholstery, curtains, walls, ceilings, mattresses, pillows, etc.

See for yourself how it makes everything as bright and new as the day it was bought. See how it cleans without raising a particle of dust, how it makes after dusting unnecessary. Watch it get the dirt from under heavy furniture behind radiators and from other inaccessible places.

Try the nine special attachments which we furnish with every machine—the hair-drying tool, the tools for cleaning clothes, book-shelves, etc.

"RICHMOND" Suction Cleaner

Compare this easy, pleasant method of cleaning with the disagreeable backaching drudgery of brooms, mops and dusters.

Put the machine in every test you can think of.

Then at the end of 5 days if you are willing to part with the machine simply notify us and we'll send for it.

On the other hand if you wish to keep the machine you can pay for it on Easy Monthly Payments out of the actual money which the machine saves for you.

A liberal discount will be allowed those who pay cash.

The experience of most purchasers is that the "RICHMOND" Suction Cleaner pays for itself in from twelve to thirty months.

It pays for itself, first, because it does away with the annual or semi-annual tear ups called housecleaning (and housecleaning costs more than you think unless you have figured it out).

It pays for itself, second, because it doubles and trebles the life of floorcoverings, hangings, furniture, wall paper, decorations, etc.

The "RICHMOND" Suction Cleaner weighs but 10 pounds. It can easily be carried upstairs, downstairs anywhere without the least fatigue. It is a truly portable cleaner.

A "RICHMOND" is built with a view to long durability and we cover it with the broadest possible guarantee. It is simple in construction. There is nothing to wear out. There are no gears, no diaphragms, no valves. Nothing to jiggle loose. To operate, simply attach to any electric lamp socket.

Costs about one cent per hour to operate.

Surely you must see that the "RICHMOND" Suction Cleaner must give perfect service, perfect satisfaction, day after day, month after month, else we could not afford this offer.

But don't take our word for it. Find out for yourself. Try a machine at our risk. It doesn't make good—it it doesn't more than come up to your expectations, simply tell us to take it away. Could anything be more fair?

Remember it costs you nothing if you decide to keep the machine. All we ask is that $1.00 be deposited with us as evidence of good faith and to keep away triflers. The $1.00 will be refunded in case the machine is returned.

Prices Range from $40.00 to $85.00.

Mail the coupon and get full particulars. Don't dawdle while you're thinking of it.

Fierce Electrical Storm.

An electrical storm of the severest character broke over a section of the county early last Thursday morning between 2 and 3 o'clock. Incessant peals of thunder and vivid flashes of lightning kept up for more than an hour and morning brought news of two fires caused by the lightning.

In Littlestown the barn of Mrs. Olivia Crouse was struck and it was at a place near to a number of other buildings and in the heart of the town, that made the fire extremely dangerous. Emory Crouse, a drayman of Littlestown had three fine horses in the barn at the time, but Frank Dutera the police officer succeeded in not only getting the horses out but all the wagons and most of the contents. The firemen responded promptly and the flames were confined to the barn and spreading to the ground. There was $50 insurance on the barn held by the Adams County Mutual Fire Insurance Company. The barn will not be rebuilt.

During the same storm the new barn on the farm of Washington Hoover, in Berwick township, Adams county, was struck by lightning and consumed with a lot of wheat, hay, straw, etc., involving a loss of about $700 on the barn and $500 on the crops. The live stock was saved, with about two tons of hay, a stack of wheat nearby, and a lot of farming implements. Mr. Hoover carried insurance of $200 on the barn, in the Munnasburg Fire Insurance Co. Wednesday evening, July 17, a fire was observed on the roof of the Livingstone shoe factory at New Oxford. An alarm was sent in to the fire department of that town, but their services were not required, as the flames were soon extinguished by a bucket brigade. Several squares of roofing were destroyed by the fire, and other damage sustained by water, which is fully covered by insurance. The origin of the fire is not known.

The large bank barn on the farm of Franklin Gebhart, near Sugartown, Mountpleasant township, Adams county, three miles from New Oxford, was struck by lightning during the storm on Tuesday of last week, and consumed, together with about 400 bus. of wheat, a large lot of hay, corn, straw, and farming implements. No live stock was lost. Loss about $2000, only partly covered by insurance in the Munnasburg Fire Insurance company.

State Highway News.

E. M. Bigelow, State Highway Commissioner last week promised to prominent Cumberland County men to rebuild the highways from Carlisle to Gettysburg in time for the fiftieth anniversary celebration of the Battle of Gettysburg in 1913.

Not only has the commissioner promised to reconstruct the public road from Mt. Holly Springs to Gettysburg, but he also assured the men who called on him that the pike from Harrisburg to Carlisle, and from Carlisle to Mt. Holly Springs will be improved before the same celebration.

The men who called on the state highway commissioner were—Judge W. F. Sadler, Capt. William E. Miller, Dr. Charles F. Himes, and President Eugene Allan Noble.

This route has been taken over by the state under the Sprout road bill, and prominent business and professional men of Cumberland county became interested in the movement to have the road put in excellent condition before the anniversary celebration of one of the world's greatest battles. Several hundred thousand people are expected to visit this battle ground on this occasion, and great numbers of them will travel by automobile and team.

Contractor John Dobbling, of York and a force of 25 or more men are now at work on the construction of nine miles of state road from New Oxford to Gettysburg. Mr. Dobbling is experiencing much difficulty in securing laborers for this work and has been advertising for men. More than 150 employees are needed to complete the task by the desired time.

Edward S. Frey assistant engineer has announced the inspectors for the New Oxford-Gettysburg road. They are D. E. Wolf, Fraunkintown, York county, for the New Oxford end, and W. B. Fleming, of Gettysburg, for the Gettysburg end. These men are now on duty.

Advertisements have been published asking for bids on the construction of 10,212 feet of good road in Straban township under the law by which township pays a portion of expense.

Decision of Judge Swope Affirmed.

The Superior Court of Pennsylvania on last Wednesday handed down a decision affirming the judgment entered in this county in case of Catherine Hershey vs. Charles J. Delone. The judgment against the defendant for $1,114.79.

The case presented an interesting legal situation. Charles Delone had bought a mill property in this county charged with a dower. The mill property burned down and Mr. Delone collected the insurance money. The widow entitled to the dower demanded interest and principal of Mr. Delone, who took the position that he had given no personal obligation for the dower, that he was not personally liable for the dower and interest and land must be looked to for the same. The Court in entering judgment for defendant directed that the land should be resorted to first and when it was exhausted that Mr. Delone must personally answer for the balance.

The case was tried at the April Court, 1911, and judgment entered in July and appeal was argued in higher Court in March of this year.

Political Inquiry.

A number of Progressives, late Republicans, of York and Adams Counties met last Saturday in York and elected Dr. F. H. Beard a delegate to the Roosevelt bolting convention to be held in Chicago, Aug. 5. Among the names of those present were Roubt. M. Elden. There are those who are wondering whether this Progressive Roubt M. Elden is any relation to the Robert M. Elden, candidate for the Legislature on the regular Republican Ticket.

Wilson's First Speech.

Democratic Nominee Woodrow Wilson made his first speech of the campaign to one hundred and thirteen Democratic Congressmen on last Saturday. They were taken to Sea Girt by Champ Clark, Speaker of the House, who introduced the party in a happy speech. Then Woodrow Wilson spoke, after which came handshaking and song, the Congressmen relieving themselves of the songs composed on the way to Sea Girt, the first being:

We are bound to win with Wilson.
We are bound to win with Wilson.
We are bound to win with Wilson.
For he is good enough for all.

The second chorus was:

Hello, Woodrow, you're a friend of mine.

Hello, Woodrow, you're a friend of mine.

You're our party's nomination.

You're Democracy's salvation.

Hello, Woodrow, you're a friend of mine.

Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the Democratic Majority of the House of Representatives.

It is with the greatest pleasure that I greet you in this way. It is a great courtesy that you pay me coming to me at Sea Girt. The Speaker has said that those Presidents of the United States who have not kept in close and intimate touch with the House of Congress have been unable to fulfill properly the high duties of their office. It seems to me that the real value of the House of Representatives is not really summed up in its own deliberations, or in those things that happen outside the sessions, when men confer informally with regard to the interests and opinions and the purposes of their fellow citizens.

As has seemed to me that the real difficulty of politics in our day is that men have not laid their minds among one another in order to have a common understanding as to what it was they were seeking to do. You can't accommodate interests by setting them against one another. You can accommodate interests only when they are willing to be accommodated, and so long as any interests hold off from the rest we will not come into common concern.

I do not know any means for such a common understanding comparable with counselling—or men who represent all parts of the country and place them in the particular way in which you do. For you do not represent interests so much as regions and people and those things that go very much deeper. And therefore it is with peculiar pleasure that I have the opportunity to day to meet you individually.

I am happy to say that I have known many of you for some time and have profited greatly by the knowledge of what is in your thoughts, and I hope that this is only the beginning of a long acquaintance which will be a union, not a single undertaking. I was saying and I need not tell you that I think without affectation that the circumstances of my nomination did not fill me with the least degree of elation, but rather with a very profound sense of responsibility, because when I received this great honor it was enough to sober any man.

This country expects us to make living easier for it. Now that is a hope, that is a confidence in us which is felt by the plain people of this country. That is a duty the more solemn because of its difficulty and complexity. And I look forward to being your comrade and partner. I greet you to-day, therefore, as I should like to believe, my future friends and associates.

UNITED STATE DEMOCRACY.

The finance Committee will have representatives in every county to have charge of the important matter of securing campaign funds. A popular subscription of 25 cents, and less, was given the endorsement of Woodrow Wilson last week. The publicity committee will be composed largely of newspaper men throughout the State and will be called upon to look after all matters involving advertising and the publication of campaign matter. The committee on organization is regarded as one of the most important. It will look after organized clubs and societies, make every effort to organize such clubs where they do not exist and encourage the enlargement of the membership of existing ones. The campaign committee will keep in touch with every county, legislative, senatorial and congressional district that the Democrats have least chance to carry.

Resolutions.

Resolutions were adopted approving the national and State Democratic platforms and endorsing the Democratic national and State tickets. A resolution was adopted calling for investigations as follows:

In view of disclosures already made and of the fact that the State is now starting on a system of public improvements involving vast expenditures of State money, we urge upon the voters of the State the urgent necessity of an independent and impartial audit of the State books by officials not connected in any way with the organization which has for so many years had absolute and exclusive control of public disbursements, and is therefore responsible for the system which experts declare is archaic and under which many conspiracies to defraud the State flourished. In particular, we call public attention to the fact that for years there has been no investigation of the expenses allowed in the collection of the State tax on inheritances, which is in the entire control of the Auditor General.

The committee also adopted a resolution on nominations, as follows:

Whereas, the people of Pennsylvania have a right to know the position of any candidate, State Senator or for representatives in the general assembly concerning any measures that will be brought before the legislature to enforce the declaration made in the various party platforms, now, therefore,

Be it resolved, That we call upon each and every Senatorial and legislative nominee of the Democratic party in this State to file with the chairman of the State Central Committee for publication, a written declaration of his approval of the various progressive measures advocated by the Democratic party, and his pledge that if elected he will support the legislature to carry the same into effect; and, further,

That he will vote against and will use every honorable means to prevent the re-election of United States Senator Boies Penrose or any adherent or representative of the system he now represents.

And should the candidate fail or refuse to file within 30 days thereafter such written declaration such pledge the chairman of the State Central Committee is authorized and is hereby directed to publish the fact for the information of the elector.

Samuel Kunkel of Harrisburg was re-elected treasurer by acclamation, after a high compliment had been paid him by Milton H. Plank, county chairman of Dauphin county.

Congressman A. Mitchell Palmer, National Committeeman from Pennsylvania, and one of the 14 members of the campaign committee selected to conduct the campaign of Woodrow Wilson was present and received an ovation of cheers and responded to the call with a brilliant address, among other things Mr. Palmer congratulated the committee and the Democracy of Pennsylvania, on the successful outcome of the meeting and the year's work, on its good sense and sound judgment in electing as chairman, "that strong, able and virile young Democrat from Allegheny county," on the harmony that exists in the party, which is of the right kind, coming as it does, from the acquiescence of the minority to the majority. He congratulated the organization that is now understood to be in harmony with twentieth century, up-to-date ideas, and paid a high tribute to Mr. Ritter for his patriotic and disinterested stand, "an evidence that our family squabbles are past and that we have a single organization." He paid a tribute to the delegation to Baltimore and said there never was a more loyal set of men from any State in the Union in the history of the country. It was due to Pennsylvania that the party wrote itself down as a party of honest government. If the result had been otherwise the Democratic party would have forfeited its right as a party organization.

"Pennsylvania, led by men going in, I believe, was the Keystone in the arch that made victory secure for us and for the right and the salvation of our party."

I believe that we can carry Pennsylvania this year, and it is up to you to do it. The conditions in Pennsylvania today are such that the Democratic electors can be elected. Plank is fighting for Plank; Penrose is fighting for Penrose; Roosevelt is fighting for Roosevelt. Plank doesn't care any more for Roosevelt and his principles than he does for me and you."

Division Chairmen were elected and in the First District to which Adams county belongs, William K. Meyers of Harrisburg was re-elected.

Democrats from every part of the State were most enthusiastic in their declarations that Democracy was going to win this year. Republicans were reported as disgusted with both Taft and Roosevelt. The leaders declared that the Democratic vote would be from 550,000 to 575,000, enough to give Pennsylvania to Wilson. Added to the accessions from Republicans disgusted with Taft and Roosevelt would be Democrats who had taken little interest in their party for sometime, who would come out and help to make victory possible.

William T. Creasy, head of the Grangers in Pennsylvania, who was known in the Legislature as a fighter for the right, said he is going to support the Democratic State ticket. "The State ticket is all right," said Mr. Creasy, "and I propose to support it. The candidates are good men and ought to be elected. And I want to say very emphatically that I am heart and soul for Woodrow Wilson for President."

The Broken Vase

By Pearl Bush-Heckel

(Copyright, 1912, by Associated Literary Press.)

Ralph Woodson stepped back quickly to get out of the way of a speeding automobile. He bumped against somebody back of him, and there was a half-suppressed feminine cry, followed by a crash as of broken china.

In confused apology he turned and beheld the most beautiful girl he had ever seen. With womanly tact, she tried to relieve his embarrassment and bide her own dismay. The package which he had knocked from her hand he ruefully picked up, and as he escorted her to the sidewalk he could feel the pieces of broken china in their wrappings.

"Pray forgive me," he exclaimed. "I am more sorry than I can say. I'll take this article with me and have it replaced."

A look almost of fright came into the young woman's face, and in anxious tones she said:

"Oh, no! You must not think of it! I can't let you have this."

She reached out her hand for the ill-fated package.

Ralph was surprised at her agitation. But he was also impressed by the remarkable sweetness of her voice.

"I'll be ashamed if you will not allow me to undo this mischief. It is good of you to belittle my awkwardness, but I've got to do something for my own self-respect."

There was such sincerity in his tones that she could not in kindness disregard them as he continued:

"I am Ralph Woodson. May I not have your address, and send you a duplicate of this article?"

Again she displayed a feeling of real embarrassment.

"Please give it to me," she insisted, and held out her hand for the package. He could not resist the pleading in her eyes, and reluctantly gave it to her.

With the article once more in her grasp, she was her graceful self again. Evidently wishing to relieve young Woodson's uneasiness, she said after a moment's hesitation:

"I am Miss Darragh. I live at No. 33 Baltimore avenue. If it will make you more comfortable, you may send me a piece of bric-a-brac. Only, I must tell you, my tastes are very simple."

Ralph wanted to prolong the interview, but there seemed no further excuse for it.

They moved away in opposite directions. He, following his habit of prompt action, went to a noted bric-a-brac establishment. The proprietor was friendly and loquacious, for the young man had been a good customer on one or two occasions. Ralph explained something of the plight he was in, and Mr. Grimm smiled knowingly. He suspected that the purchase would be directed more or less by the heart, and not by the pocketbook. He brought out a little vase which he carried with more than ordinary care.

"This," he explained, "is a piece of genuine old Vienna ware. It is one of a very handsome pair of vases. The mate to this piece disappeared from our display window yesterday. We've got detectives all over the city on the lookout for it."

Ralph liked the vase, and bought it. He had made up his mind to the presumption of delivering it in person. Accordingly, he left his law office early in the afternoon, and was soon seated in the Darragh drawing-room awaiting, with a shade of anxiety, Miss Darragh's entrance. He was conscious in a general way of the quiet elegance of his surroundings, but all his active mind was occupied with the mere pleasure of being there, the pleasure of meeting again the woman whose personality had dominated the whole day for them.

The soft rustle of skirts announced her coming, and Ralph rose to meet her. She was more charming than he had thought. No woman had ever before seemed to him so gracious and lovable.

In accepting the package from his hand, she revealed a happy anticipation as to the contents. He watched her admiringly while she unwrapped the box, and felt secure in the thought she must find his gift faultless. She lifted the lid with playful eagerness, but at sight of the vase within, started back in dismay. A low cry escaped her lips, and she hastily laid the box on a table near by lest the vase fall from her trembling fingers.

Ralph, disappointed and hurt, led her to a chair. Miss Darragh looked up at him tremblingly, and her eyes pleaded forgiveness.

"I am very sorry, Mr. Woodson. You will think me nervous and queer, I know. But I was startled. I'll show you why."

She opened a drawer of the table and took from it the little package with which Ralph was already familiar. He opened it at her bidding, and there, in pieces, lay the exact counterpart of his Vienna vase.

In a flash he recalled Mr. Grimm's tale of the theft. It was Ralph's turn to feel dismay.

"Could this beautiful girl be—?" He murdered the suspicion before it was born.

Turning to her, he tried to laugh at the coincidence, and murmured something about his lucky selection.

Miss Darragh, having recovered her composure, explained to him that the broken vase had possessed a particular significance for her, that the sight of another like it had naturally taken her by surprise.

He left the place admiring Alice

Darragh more than ever; but he was altogether mystified. The ugly thought, which for an instant had sprung up in his mind unbidden, he had quickly banished.

He made a late visit to his law office, and tried to settle down to a routine of business which should have been dispatched earlier in the day. The tasks kept him busy until night. In fact, it was ten o'clock before he left the office free to seek the rest in his apartments.

As he entered his sitting room the glow from an open fireplace rendered it warm and inviting. He threw himself in a big armchair and yielded unresistingly to a sweep of new emotions which the day had brought him. After a while he drew the evening paper from his pocket and began to read listlessly. Suddenly his eye was arrested by a suggestive headline:

"Theft at the Jenks Store. Rare Bric-a-brac Stolen. Young Woman Suspect. Reward."

The article contained little more information than the headlines. He had scarcely finished reading it when the telephone in his room rang sharply.

"Hello," came a woman's voice over the wire. "Is Mr. Ralph Woodson there?" "This is Miss Darragh. Can you come to my house right away? I regret troubling you so late in the evening, but it is imperative."

Ralph, surprised and a little excited, was ready and on his way to answer the summons in a very few minutes. Miss Darragh was in the hall when he arrived.

"Mr. Woodson," she began, "I am about to place a strange confidence in you. I have had a very unhappy day, and am compelled to call upon you for help. The vase that I had in my hand when we met this morning was taken by theft from the Jenks store. You may have read an item regarding it in the paper. The little girl who took it is a sort of protegee of mine. At least I have been trying for several years to help her in a struggle against her environment. She loves beautiful things, and she was trained from her babyhood to steal, but it is so long now since her last offense that I thought she was cured. It certainly is discouraging to have her go back to her old ways again. She is heart-broken about it herself, and I am trying once more to protect her and help her toward a future. A detective who has come to my assistance on other occasions was going to return the stolen vase for me today and conceal the facts. I was taking it to him when I met you this morning."

Here Ralph interrupted:

"And my awkwardness spoiled all your plans. I am sorrier than ever. But can't we—?"

"It couldn't be helped," she interrupted. "I'm afraid, though, that I'll have to let the vase which you gave me be returned in lieu of the stolen one. The detective thinks it's wise, for suspicion is beginning to close in on my little friend. Will you forgive me if I do this?"

"Forgive you, Miss Darragh?" he exclaimed. "I was going to suggest it. This is the first happy moment I have had today. After the mess I made of things this morning, I am the luckiest fellow in the world to have blundered upon a way to help you."

She held out her hand to him in gratitude. As he took it in his grasp, the look in his eyes brought the quick blood to her cheeks. In her woman's heart she understood and was glad.

FLATTERY THAT WENT WRONG

Examples of Well-Meant Compliments Not at All Pleasing to the Recipients.

The marquis of Santarre, who was blind, went to hear the opera "Eneide," which caused a great furor in Paris in the reign of Louis XV., and being very pleased asked his attendant who wrote it.

"Al Poinset," was the reply. "I should like to speak to him," said the marquis.

So, afterward, in the crush room M. Poinset was introduced to the blind nobleman, who embraced him with effusion and said:

"My dear sir, accept my warmest thanks for the pleasure you have afforded me. Your opera is full of beauty; the music is delicious. Oh, what a misfortune that you had to set it to such trashy words."

Unfortunately, it was the libretto, and not the music, of which poor M. Poinset was the author.

Louis XIV., who, like many humble rhymersters, somewhat overrated his poetical powers, showed a copy of verses to Boileau and asked his candid opinion of them.

"Ah, sire," said the poet. "I am more convinced than ever that nothing is impossible to your majesty; you desired to write some poor rhymes and you have succeeded in making them positively detestable!"

Odd Weddings in Wendland. A village wedding in Wendland—a district in the province of Hanover—is a very picturesque affair. Directly after the marriage has taken place the bridal party dances in the farmstead to an old-fashioned wedding tune called "Zweitritt auf der Stelle."

Then the bride goes into the cow-house and the bridegroom into the stables, after which they make a tour around the cattle generally, in order to bring a bridal blessing on themselves. The bride then dispenses beer to all the guests standing round, serving it out of a new milk pan. The costume of the men resembles that of an undertaker, and each of them wears a big white cockade and a white affair almost like a tablecloth instead of a boutonniere.

Fortune From Watercress. Mrs. James is said to have amassed a fortune of $400,000 by selling watercress at Covent Garden market, London. Mrs. James has been selling watercress ever since she was five years old, beginning with two small baskets.

"Hard work is the secret of success," Mrs. James declares. "I stand out in the open every morning from three o'clock till ten, and after that I have to look after the fresh cut watercress which arrives from my farm by every passenger train. Study your customers, never disappoint them, give them the best and you must succeed." Mrs. James has a handsome house in London, a house in the country, a watercress farm, and keeps a motor launch.

Elaborate Apology. "What do you mean by waving that red flag and stopping the train?" asked the irate engineer.

"You wrong us," replied Meandering Mike. "We was holdin' a little meetin'."

IMPATIENCE CALLED A SIN

Worse Than Folly, Inasmuch as It Does Harm to Others Besides the Unfortunate Possessor.

The word patience is not mentioned in the Old Testament. It seems to have come with the Christian deligion and to have taken its place among the virtues after Christ came. This is strange, for impatience is one of the implacable enemies of man's peace and joy. It is the easiest sin there is. It is always ready to break out in revolt against the peace and dignity of the individual.

It is mighty unfortunate for a person to be easily afflicted with impatience. It is a real suffering. It is a bad spirit that grabs a man and squeezes the reason out of him. A man is sort of crazy who is impatient. He lets go of faith in God and the logic of events and gets mad at both. It does no good to anybody, and nine cases out of ten a man is ashamed of himself when he lets this sin get the better of him.

As proof that impatience is downright wickedness, notice how a victim of it will swear, insult his friend, snub his wife, kick the cat, slam down whatever is in his hand, and make everybody around him as miserable as himself. Such are the evil associations of impatience—Ohio State Journal.

BOOBY BIRD IS WELL NAMED

Most Stupid of All Feathered Creatures, Though Its Eggs Are Pronounced Good.

Doubtless the term "booby," signifying a stupid creature, has been misapplied in some cases, but it correctly describes several varieties of birds of the gannet species common to certain islands of the Caribbean sea.

The booby is a small water fowl, and in spring and summer millions of its kind flock to seven little islands some thirty-five miles southeast of Jamaica. The booby bird is so called because of its stupidity, since it has absolutely no fear of man. The islands frequented by these birds are leased to private individuals who derive a large income from the collection and sale of booby eggs. Nearly 60,000 dozen booby eggs were taken from the seven little islands to Jamaica last year where they were sold at the rate of about $5.25 for a case containing 500.

An American consular officer familiar with the subject states that while booby eggs are only about two-thirds as large as hen's eggs they are but little inferior in quality. There might be a market in this country for the booby product.

Celebrated Armorers.

In olden times the armorer's work was not of a rough and ready description, but generally bore the signs of highly wrought workmanship. The various pieces of a suit fit into their positions to a nicety, there are no rough edges, and as a rule very little that is merely careless decorative work. Fashion and reputation have left their hall mark on the armor of each period, and like most other industries it had its distinguished masters. The name of Jacob Topf is, for example, still famous in England, and such names as those of Lorenzo Colman of Augsburg, a German armorer of the sixteenth century, Lucio Pinchino, a Milanese, and the Wolfs of Landslut, a family of armorers that are supposed to have worked for Philip II. of Spain, are celebrated in their own countries.

Before Arising.

Never jump out of bed with a hop, skip and jump if you have any regard for your heart. Oh, yes, it is all right to have the spirit and the feeling that you can do it; but don't. Take a lesson from the cat. Begin by stretching the entire body while lying flat on the back. Tense your arm muscles, leg muscles, abdominal and back muscles, chest muscles. First tense, then relax; tense again and again, following each tensing or stretching with a complete relaxing. This increases heart action gradually (it has been working on half time all night unless you have retired with a stomach full of undigested food), and, at the same time, cause arterial distention in the most natural and effective manner. This is in full accord with physiological law.

Fields of Usefulness.

The good physician occupies a field of great usefulness in the world. No one questions this, and no one would think of eliminating him.

It is equally true that the good proprietary medicine occupies as wide a field of usefulness, not only because it is convenient and economical, but also because it is always most carefully compounded from the best quality of ingredients, by the same processes and by the same experienced chemists, which gives it an advantage over the ordinary prescription in uniformity of strength, quality and effect.

Anyone who reads the letters that voluntarily tell of cures effected by Hood's Sarsaparilla, even when every other means of relief—other medicines, hospital treatment and physician's prescriptions—have been exhausted, cannot but be convinced of its great value.

The benefit derived from its use for the diseased and run-down conditions for which it is recommended, has been inestimable in many thousands of cases.

HARRY J. COULTON, son of John Coulton, formerly of Latimore township, was taken to the York hospital where a small house was removed from his foot on account of an injury received received six years ago.

A young son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Weaver of Midway was knocked down by an automobile and slightly injured, while crossing the street.

RATTLESNAKE IN MONTANA

People of Neighborhood Kill 290 Snakes in Their Efforts at Extermination.

A posse of extermination was organized and at least 290 rattlesnakes of all sizes were killed in Rattlesnake Gulch, near Three Forks, yesterday.

The source of the hundreds of the reptiles, from which the gulch takes its name, was found in the shape of a small cave, discovered by accident by Amos Smith. Mr. Smith notified his friends in Three Forks and nearly a hundred men and boys proceeded to the scene, armed with all variety of weapons.

For three hours the battle raged and at its close 290 rattlers were counted strewn on the ground, and not a man had been bitten. The reptiles were slightly dormant, owing to the coolness, but when aroused would sally forth from the cave. Clubs, shotguns and rifles were used in the slaughter. When no more snakes emerged from the cave a repeating shotgun was discharged into it and about fifty more were dragged forth.

Some of the specimens killed measured more than three feet long, while others were only a few inches in length. Some of the larger ones will be stuffed and placed on exhibition. For years the farmers in the neighborhood have been bothered by the great number of rattlesnakes. The gulch of that name was literally alive with them. The den discovered by Mr. Smith is on the People's ranch. After cleaning out this den it was decided to continue the crusade and there are a number of men and boys scouring the community for more snakes.—Bozeman correspondence on the Standard.

Wanted Epitaph to Endure.

Edmond de Gopcourt, the French novelist, admitted that he worked with an eye to his epitaph, and he wanted the epitaph to endure for a long time. He records in his journal that "the thought that the world may perish, may not last forever, is one which occasionally fills my mind with gloom. I should be defrauded by the destruction of this planet, for I have written only in the hope of eternal fame. A reputation lasting 10,000, 20,000, even 100,000 years, would be a poor return for the pains I have taken, the privations I have suffered. Under these conditions it would have been better to lounge aimlessly through life, dreaming and smoking my time away."

EXPRESSION IN MODERN HAND

Denotes Thoughtfulness to the Observer, as Well as Some of the New Virtues.

There is no doubt that the expression of the hand in higher civilized races has changed, in a hundred years, said an observant woman the other day, quite as much as that of the face. "The perfect hand of the painters," says Richard Pryce in his novel, "Christopher," "The Hand Beautiful of convention, lacked subtleties." Now these subtleties may be perceived any night at any dinner table where Superior Persons are gathered together. The modern hand is a thoughtful hand, and makes use of gestures which denote the new virtues of pity and altruism, as well as an extraordinary feeling for the arts, especially that of music. If you took an audience at one of the classical concerts and examined their hands, you would hardly find one of the old, blunt, square-fingered, brutal type among them. Sir Henry Irving had beautiful and essentially "modern hands," and he used them with extraordinary effect in his acting. How often one would look at his hands instead of his face in some great scene—so expressive were they of his emotions. In medieval times only saints and martyrs possessed the kind of a hand which you see nowadays belonging to a high school teacher or a celebrated physician. Yet Mr. Pryce's heroine believes her intellectual hands. She is an arrant coquette, and, in spite of her superfine and modern emotions, contrives to treat the hero very shabbily. These modern hands, with all their subtleties, are therefore not to be trusted. Indeed, their very complexities are a snare to the unwarier observer.

NEVER FIGHT WITH BURGLAR

Upset a Chair and Frighten Him Away—That is the Advice of a City Policeman.

"Don't ever 'hunt' a burglar. Make a noise and frighten him away. Upset a chair or slam a door.

"Almost all burglars carry revolvers of the finest kind. A 'peté man' or safe blower, the most dangerous kind of criminal, usually carries an automatic revolver, as it gives the quickest action.

"Every householder should have a weapon in the house, but he should never use it unless to save his life.

"It is the inexperienced man whose use of the revolver makes it dangerous.

"A professional or expert burglar will never shoot unless to avoid capture. A safe blower will shoot at a policeman or any intruder, as for them capture means a long term in prison."

Special Officer Edward Brophy, an expert, made these statements, says the Pittsburgh Post. It is only on the very rarest occasions that he can be induced to talk about himself, but it is a fact that he is a crack shot with a pistol. He has made a study of weapons, and has a collection of them at his home ranging from little "baby hammerless" revolvers to huge Winchester rifles, a shot from which will move a heavy safe. He has always been interested in guns, and has taken special pains to learn about the guns burglars and other criminals carry.

School Land Ship.

One of the features of their public school training which the boys of Berlin, Germany, enjoy most is the "land ship," on which young sailors go through a regular daily training. The ship is the name of the land ship which has been built and which has a crew of 120 boys. The larger boys act as officers. When they are at work on the land ship the boys dress in mid-day blouses and caps. There is gun practice on the land ship every day, and a naval drill, and all the usual work of a ship is done by the boys. They have the greatest fun in climbing the spars and hoisting the sails, and life on the ship is so popular that there are always more applicants for the crew than there are places to be filled.

Value of Good Manners.

The woman who amounts to anything these days must have good manners. There are exceptions, but the woman who would make friends for herself or business for her firm will have a lot easier time and be more successful if she has acquired personal charm. An unfortunate manner neutralizes the good a woman does. The capable woman need not grow slack in her work because she leads, not drives; because she is soft of voice, suave of tongue, kindly of heart, and gracious to all. The reason most of the women are otherwise than suave is that the turmoil of life gets the upper hand. They let their nerves go and good breeding follows.

Honor Utterer of Epigrams.

The Japanese are great admirers of epigrams and apt phrases. Their love of such things is carried so far that when a guest says something unusually brilliant the host or hostess will beg him to write down his remark in large ornamental script. The sentence is then mounted and hung on the wall as a permanent addition to its ornaments, much as we might hang up a text or motto. Naturally the author of a bon mot treated in this way feels himself highly honored to be thus placed on record. But the sentences are selected more for their wisdom than their humor; so that the funny man is not much in evidence.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Elopement and Marriage.

SHELLMAN-CROMER—A well planned and successful elopement was carried out Sunday night, Aug. 4, when Miss Lottie Cromer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Cromer, of Hanover, left home and met Charles C. Shellman, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Shellman, of New Oxford, by appointment—drove to Westminster, where they were married by Rev. W. L. Seacrook, a Lutheran minister. It is said there was objection on the part of the bride's parents to the match, and the young couple pursued their courtship under great difficulties. The runaway bride left home on Sunday evening, to spend the night with the family of her brother, Geo. Cromer. It was from this place, while the family was in "dreamland," that the bride slipped quietly from the house and joining her lover, who was waiting with a team, they drove to Westminster where the romance culminated.

The newly-wedded pair then returned to the groom's home in New Oxford, where they were tendered a reception; also, a serenade by a calithumpian band. The groom is a fireman on the Western Maryland railroad, and they will reside in Hanover, having rented a house on Abbotts-town street.

LIVELSPERGER-SMALL—SMALL-NEIDERER—A double wedding was solemnized at a nuptial mass in Conowago Chapel on Tuesday, Aug. 6th, Rev. Germanus Kohl, the rector officiating. Each couple served as attendants to the other.

The contracting parties were Lawrence Livelberger, son of John Livelberger, and Miss Mary Small, daughter of the late Ignatius Small, and Kieran Small, son of the same, and Miss Emma Neiderer daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Neiderer all of near Edgegrove.

FELTY-BILLMAN—George Felty, Jr., son of George Felty, of New Oxford, and Miss Alberta Billman, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Billman, of near New Oxford, were united in marriage in a Nuptial Mass in the Church of the Immaculate Conception by Rev. Fr. Shields on Tuesday of last week. The attendants were Augustus Felty, of Hanover, brother of the groom, and Miss Louisa Billman, sister of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Felty are both employees of the Livingston Shoe Factory of New Oxford.

NICKEY-GRIM—July 31, Allen F. Nickey, of East Berlin, and Della M. Grim, of Dallastown, were united in marriage.

L. M. Buehler's Unusual Offer.

"It isn't often that I have faith enough in the medicine put up by other people to be willing to offer to refund the money if it does not cure," said L. M. Buehler to a COMPILER man who dropped into his store. "but I am glad to sell Dr. Howard's specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia on that basis."

"The Dr. Howard Company in order to get a quick introductory sale, authorizes me to sell their regular fifty cent bottles at half-price, 25 cents, and, although I have sold a lot of it, and have guaranteed every package, not one has been brought back as unsatisfactory."

"I am still selling the specific at half-price, although I cannot tell how long I shall be able to do so, and anyone who is subject to constipation, sick headache, dizziness, liver trouble, indigestion or a general played out condition, ought to take advantage of this chance. You can tell your readers that if they are not satisfied with the specific that they can come right back to my store and I will cheerfully refund their money."

Formal Opening of New W. M. Line

The new schedules governing the movement of freight trains over the Western Maryland's Connellsville extension have been completed, and provide for hauling an enormous tonnage over the new line.

Freight traffic manager Hendricks has issued following statement:

"The Western Maryland having completed the extension of its lines from Cumberland to Connellsville, begs to announce that a new short line route between the East and West is afforded. Fast freight schedules have been arranged between New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and all other principal shipping centers in the East."

It is authentically stated the formal opening of the extension will take place Thursday, August 1. A number of company officials will start from one end of the line on a schedule providing for stoppages at important stations of sufficient time to enable the people to exchange greetings with the officials and train crew.

Held for Court.

Joseph A. Ocker after hearing before Alderman Hoveter in Harrisburg was held under $500 bail for the next term of the Dauphin County Criminal Court upon a charge of perjury.

The charge is the outcome of a prosecution brought by Ocker several months ago before the same Alderman and dismissed by him.

Ocker and J. M. Shultz, of Gettysburg, have been engaged for some time in horse dealing and had in April purchased five horses with the intention of selling them at a profit. Ocker to have half the gains and to stand for half of any losses that might be incurred. The horses were then driven to Harrisburg and placed in a stable.

It was at this time, when the first case was instituted and subsequently dismissed, that the perjury is alleged to have been committed. Three of the horses disappeared one night and subsequently turned up at the stables of Schultz and Ocker in Gettysburg several days later. Ocker at the time caused the arrest of the prosecutor in the present case, Robert Wilson together with two others for having been connected with their disappearance.

The charge of perjury is preferred by Wilson, who claims that at that time Ocker falsely swore that he had $450 invested in the animals, when they in fact were owned by Schultz, and that the false swearing was made with a malicious intent.

Phrases That Have Become Household Words Dropped From the Lips of Lawyers.

It appears that judges and lawyers have contributed a liberal share to the stock of popular sayings, says a writer in the Green Bag.

It is Francis Bacon who speaks of matters that "come home to men's business and bosom," who lays down the axiom that "knowledge is power" and who utters that solemn warning to enamored benedicts: "He that hath a wife and children hath given hostages to fortune."

We have the high authority of Sir Edward Coke for declaring that "corporations have no souls," and that "a man's house is his castle."

The expression "An accident of an accident" is borrowed from Lord Thurlow. "The greatest happiness of the greatest number," occurs in Bentham, but as an acknowledged translation from the jurist Beccaria.

To Leviathan Hobbes we owe this maxim: "Words are wise men's counters, but the money of fools." It is John Selden who suggests that by throwing a straw into the air one may see the way of the wind, and to his contemporary Oxeusien is due the discovery "With how little wisdom is the world governed."

Mackintosh first used the phrase "a wise and masterly inactivity." "The schoolmaster is abroad" is from a speech by Lord Brougham.

In the familiar phrase "a delusion, a mockery and a snare" there is a certain biblical ring, which has sometimes led to its being quoted as from one or other of the Hebrew prophets. The words are, in fact, an extract from the judgment of Lord Denman at the trial of O'Connell.

BREAD AS OLD AS MANKIND

Relics of Prehistoric Ancestors of the Present Race Prove That They Used It for Food.

That very respectable and useful couple—bread and cheese—have for so long been closely associated that one might have supposed them to have been born about the same time, and to have been brought up in each other's company through all the ages. It would seem, however, that bread can boast of a much more honorable antiquity than its sister, cheese, which, so far as one can discover, is a comparatively modern invention. There is, of course, nothing to prove that the ancient Britons did not make cheese, but if they did, they failed to leave behind them even so much as a portion of the rind.

The history of bread, on the other hand, can easily be traced back to the earliest times, both in this and other countries. In Switzerland, in particular, abundant proof has been forthcoming from time to time that the art of baking was quite well understood by our prehistoric ancestors, excavations conducted on the site of some of the numerous lake dwellings of that country showing that both milling and baking must have been recognized occupations even so far back as the Stone Age. Stone, in fact, was indispensable to both processes, and not only have stones for milling and baking ovens been discovered, but bread itself in large quantities has been disinterred.

Many Animals Have a Sweet Tooth.

Everybody knows that foxes are fond of rabbits and hens; but, in spite of Esop's fable we forget that they have what is called "a sweet tooth," and frequently eat ripe fruit. The coyotes of Point Loma, which are first cousins of the foxes, often devour two or three watermelons in one night. They bite them open and relieve their thirst, as well as satisfying their love for sweet things. They will also eat the "prickly pears" which grow on the wild cacti, and are even suspected of robbing big fruit trees.

There are lions living in a very dry part of Africa which quench their thirst on small melons which grow wild there.

Bears also are fond of fruit and eat quantities of berries in the autumn. Their "sweet tooth" leads them to attack beehives, too, and they do not suffer so much as you might think, as their thick fur protects them from the angry bees.

"The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials."

A RETROSPECT

By Annie Harichsen

(Copyright, 1912, by Associated Literary Press.)

"You have been awfully good to me."

"I am interested in you," said the woman at the desk. "You are young and ambitious and very enthusiastic."

"The other editors," said the girl, "tell me to submit my stories and they will read them. But you take time to talk to me and advise me and help me. You do think I can write, don't you?"

"I think that some day you will be able to write."

The editor's eyes were keen and appraising. Her face was cold and there was a touch of sadness about her lips. "When she smiled, a surprising gentleness softened her face and brought a faint glow to the clear skin."

"Some day I shall be able to write," repeated the younger woman, her merry, piquant face suddenly serious. "That is encouragement enough to help me through every trial. I am ready to give up every other interest for this one beautiful, perfect dream."

"A girl of your age and charm usually has a very important interest—a young man."

"There was a young man, Miss Graymont, a wonderfully nice man, but—I wrote many stories. I sold a few. I thought that if I came to the city and met editors and writers I should be able to do better work and sell it. He wanted me to stay at home and marry him and forget my ambition. I refused."

The sad lines about the editor's mouth deepened. Her eyes seemed to look through the girl and far beyond her. "Do you love him?" she asked slowly. "And is he good and true? Is it only your ambition that stands between you?"

"I want to be a great writer. Ambition is greater than love."

"My advice is marry the man you love. Do not give him up for the sake of a career."

"I want the career." The girl's lips were set in a stubborn line.

"Miss Ellis, between a beginning and a success lie years of struggle

"You Will Never Amount to Anything in the Literary World."

and heartache, cruel thorns and bitter tears. If you love a good man, go home and marry him."

"I shall not."

"You remind me of a girl I knew years ago. She was as pretty as you are and as ambitious and enthusiastic. She left her lover and came to the city. At first she had a hard time: her stories sold slowly. But gradually editors found merit in her work. With each success the memory of the man she had loved grew fainter. At last she wrote him that her ambitions were being realized and that he was out of her life forever. For a time she was very happy. But when she had reached the most coveted pinnacle she found only—only unutterable loneliness. She will always be lonely—and she is still young. The man—she has never seen him since. I suppose he has forgotten."

"But I am different," persisted the girl. "Success will completely satisfy me. I was never so happy in my life as I was when you read my story 'Cherry Blossoms,' and told me that it was good."

"It is good. The description of the cherry orchard, the old stone bench by the brook, the dying sunlight—the distant hills, touched—touched me, I mean, and the story you placed in that setting was a tender, natural little love story."

A shade came into Mabel Ellis's eyes. "It was a true story," she said softly. "It really happened there, under the cherry trees. The trees are real and the brook and the stone seat and Roger and I were real lovers. But we have parted now—"

"Roger?"

"Roger Galbraith."

"You live at Woodford?"

"Why, how did you know?"

"I was there once. It was spring-time and the cherry trees were in bloom." Again the editor's eyes went far beyond the girl, beyond the city's immense buildings. After a moment she brought her thoughts back to the girl. "You are going home," she said deliberately, "home to Roger. Don't interrupt me. You must go home and marry him. You cannot realize your ambitions. You have not the talent nor the ability. You will never amount to anything in the literary world."

"But you told me a few minutes ago that I can write—"

"Never mind what I told you then. Listen to what I say now. You cannot write. You have absolutely no talent."

At the door the girl turned. The editor saw the look on her face. "Mabel," she said gently, "forgive my cruelty; it is kindness."

"You have killed my ambition," said the girl, "and you have broken my heart."

A few days later a man was shown into Miss Graymont's office.

"Rober Galbraith." The editor's voice was almost a whisper.

"Mabel Ellis has told me everything," said Galbraith. "She came home utterly discouraged. A beautiful dream-bubble had been pricked by the sharp needle of brutal frankness."

"I am glad she has gone home. She will not sacrifice love for a career. Her description of the cherry trees, the brook and the stone bench reminded me of a similar spot and interested me in her work. She has some talent. She might have succeeded. But when she told me that the trees, the brook, the bench and the lover were real, that the lover was Roger Galbraith, and that she intended to give him up for her profession I determined to end her ambition. I did it for her sake—and for yours, Roger. It seemed unfair that two women should, for the same reason, make you unhappy."

"Two women? Only one woman ever made me unhappy."

"I sent Mabel back to you. She will forget her ambition in her greater happiness."

"Sent Mabel back to me? You sent her back to my nephew; he is also Roger Galbraith. You are coming back to me, Edith. It has been ten years since you told me that you loved your art better than you could ever love me. I believed that you were happy and satisfied with the lot you had chosen. I have always loved you, dear. But I could not come to you until I heard the story of a lonely, successful woman told by a cruel, heartless editor to a literary novice."

"It is spring," the editor answered. The sadness was gone from her lips. Her face was radiant. "The cherry blossoms are in bloom. The stone bench is by the brook, and I—I am going to them."

EDUCATION FOR LIFE WORK

High School in Newark, N. J., Teaches Practical Things in Addition to Regular Course.

A five-room model flat, a machine shop and a school of business are some of the features incorporated in a public high school just opened in Newark, N. J., for the purpose of preparing girls and boys to be good wives, good workmen and good clerks.

The model flat, containing dining-room, pantries, bedroom and bathroom, provides practical problems in housekeeping for the girls, who also receive instruction in other branches of housewifery, such as sewing, millinery, home sanitation, nursing, cooking and like subjects. The machine shop, one hundred feet long, is maintained in connection with the course in manual training. In addition to machine shop work, the manual-training course also gives the high school boys the chance to learn forge work, pattern making and sheet metal work. Preparation for such occupations as joinery, wood turning, and free hand and machine drawing is also provided.

As the school generates its own light and power it is likewise enabled to give instruction in the handicrafts which pertain to these branches. In order to use this plant for instruction purposes, a special test room has been provided.

In the business school, courses in business practice and typewriting are offered. All these courses in housekeeping, handicrafts and commerce are in addition to the regular English high school work.

Coleridge in Youth.

In his history of the Strand, just published in London, Beresford Chancellor quotes a capital story about Coleridge. It is to the effect that in his hot poetic youth, Coleridge was walking down the Strand, lost in day dreams, when he began to wave his arms about him in some mysterious correspondence with his thoughts. In the course of these gyrations he was so unfortunate as to find his hand in a stranger's pocket. This astonished person at once charged him with felonious intention, whereupon the poor youth sobbed out his innocence, and added the perfectly true explanation: "I thought sir—I thought I was swimming the Hellespont."

Contrary Evidence.

"That woman says she feels tremendously superior to all the facts and foibles of society."

"Yes," replied Miss Cayenne; "but I observe that she has read about them so attentively that she knows them all by heart."

Feelings.

"Well, old sport, how do you feel? I've just eaten a bowl of oxtail soup and feel bully."

"I've just eaten a plate of hash and feel like everything."—Yale Record.

UP IN ARMS AGAINST CRITICS

London Theater Managers Resent "Roasts" and Newspaper Makes a Plain Talk.

One can easily sympathize with an actor manager, and not less, as in a recent instance, with an actress-manager, who finds that personal estimates of the merits of a play are not endorsed either by the critics or by that far more important section of the community, the playgoing public. But the growing practice on the part of those who control our theaters of showing something like petulance, or worse, when they find they have made a mistake is full of awkward possibilities. Gerald du Maurier's outburst is the latest instance in point. Because those whom he invited to express opinions on his new venture, "The Dust of Egypt," told the truth about it and failed to indulge in paeans of praise he writes a portentous letter to ask "What is a critic?" The best answer we have seen comes from A. C. Benson: "I suppose that an expert critic is a man with a natural faculty of discrimination which has been trained by experience." One is disposed to believe, after witnessing the sorry stuff so often put upon the stage, that a little more exercise of a faculty for discrimination trained by experience would be to the general advantage in the enterprise of the theater. It would spare the critics many dull hours, the managers much loss of money, and—where they cannot take their losses in a sporting spirit—of temper, while the public opinion of the stage and all its works would be immensely improved.—The Globe, London.

SENSE OF HONOR IN TRAMPS

Storekeeper Who Trusts "Gentlemen of the Road" Declares They Pay Debts Promptly.

In the north part of New York there is a postmaster, who is also owner of a small general store, who has ideas about the tramp that are different from the ideas entertained by the average citizen. The owner of the store and the representative of Uncle Sam is stationed at a junction of three or four railroads, and nearby is a wood, an ideal place for a tramps' camp, which has been a rendezvous for years.

Several years ago the storekeeper began selling goods to the hoboes for cash. He observed that the same faces came in regularly, at intervals of a month or more. Soon the tramps began to ask for credit, and the storekeeper extended it. He found that invariably the tramp came in and paid his bill on his next return to the rendezvous, or if he were out on a long trip, a money order would be sent for the amount. He has dealt with the shifting population for nearly 20 years, and declares he has never lost a cent from a bad account with one. He does not know the names of his customers, except as they are accounted by their fellows by the road names they bear, and most of the accounts are kept in the storekeeper's mind.

Troublesome Moose of Maine.

Hancock county, which is in southeastern Maine, is suffering a plague of moose and up around the headwaters of Union river and in the region of Saponic and Nickalous lakes the people who stay on farms the year around are calling for help.

Last summer the animals did serious injury to farm crops. This winter, it appears, they have yarded in and fed upon varieties of slash that seemed to be the honest pioneer's last resource. One farmer writes the state commissioners of inland fisheries and game to the effect that several years ago he bought a tract of 200 acres of wild land with the intent to go over it annually and cut out hoop poles. He did that once.

Then, as he expresses it, about the time that thousands of sprouts came up "the moose came in," destroyed the sprouts "and continue annually to destroy at least $200 of poles besides the growth." And this man and his neighbors have no redress short of the ultimate gun, since, though a state law provides reimbursement for crop damages inflicted by deer, moose do not figure in this way in any statute.—Boston Transcript.

Time Signals by Telephone.

A mechanism has been attached to the time-clock at the Hamburg observatory by which the exact official time is transmitted to the telephone system of the city. From the fifty-fifth to sixtieth second of each minute the apparatus transmits a musical signal, which is followed by a phonographic announcement of the exact minute. The signals are transmitted by special wire to the headquarters of the telephone system, and thence to each local exchange. Any telephone subscriber who wishes to get the exact time has only to ask for the time connection at his exchange and to listen for the phonographic announcement. This is an improvement upon the American method by which time signals are transmitted by telegraph only once a day.—Youth's Companion.

Sacrificed to Reform.

"You have abandoned the picturesque custom of crowning a queen of the May?"

"Yes," replied the merry villager; "we had to give it up. There got to be so many candidates and so much campaigning that politics left us no time for business."

WILSON'S ACCEPTANCE.
 The acceptance of Woodrow Wilson as the greatest Democratic utterance we have had for years. Every Democrat and citizen interested in government should read it from start to finish. The speech was not received in time for this issue but will appear in our next issue.

N. G. P. Colonel Ends Life.
 Colonel Gibbons Gray Cornwell of West Chester, who commanded the Sixth Regiment N. G. P. at the recent encampment went to New York City after the camp had ended here and it was said this was for the purpose of evading officers who were after him for shortages in trust estates in his hands. He was arrested in New York, and on way home tricked the officer to as to get out of his suit case a revolver and shot himself through the mouth before it could be prevented. The misappropriation of funds it is said will run to many thousands of dollars. He carried $50,000 on his life.

Most Remarkable.
 The seven bearers of the body of James Hersh to his last resting place on Tuesday last week, were all members of his old Regiment who went through the Civil War with so much glory, the 5th Pa. Vol. Six of them were members of Co. F, Gettysburg's exclusive company, and one of Co. I, Quartermaster Hersh's original company. The combined ages of these seven veterans was 531 years, from 71 to 74, averaging 76 years. They enlisted August, 1861. Just 51 years ago.

Utterly Wretched
 Nervous Prostration Long Endured Before Remedy Was Found.
 Miss Minerva Reminger, Upper Fern, Pa., writes: "For several years I had nervous prostration, and was utterly wretched. I lived on bread and beef tea because my stomach would not retain anything else. I took many remedies, but obtained no relief until I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, when I began to gain at once. Am now cured."
 Pure, rich blood makes good, strong nerves, and this is why Hood's Sarsaparilla, which purifies and enriches the blood, cures so many nervous diseases. Get it today in usual liquid form or chocolate tablets called Sarsatabs.

NATIVE DIES AT HARRISBURG

WHERE SHE KEPT A UNIQUE STORE FOR OVER 40 YEARS.

A Well Known Business Man and Veteran of Fairfield Joins the Majority.

Miss JENNIE GUTELIUS, a native of Littlestown, died in Harrisburg on Aug. 2nd, aged 69 years. The interment was made at Littlestown Monday of last week. The "Harrisburg Telegraph" in noting her death said: The wooden shutters are closed and barred, long black streamers are floating from the doorway, and inside the little shop at 28 N. Second street all is darkness and quiet, for "Miss Jennie," the moving spirit of the place for more than forty years, passed out of life at 5 a. m. Friday, Aug. 2, into the eternal rest. Sara Jennie Gutelius, born at Littlestown, October 19, 1842, was the daughter of Henry and Katharine Musser Gutelius. She came to Harrisburg when quite a young girl to clerk in the fancy store of Mrs. Eliza Klein in South Market Square. Her fingers were so deft and her work so exquisitely neat that she was urged to start a little shop in Chestnut street, near Second, doing so well that after four years she removed to the larger room at 28 North Second street where she had remained so long. Her business was a unique one in this city and she held it long without competition. Her dainty baby caps have covered the heads of several generations and one's fingers never seemed to have quite the right touch until "Miss Jennie" perked up the oows and picked out the frills. Miss Gutelius has been a member of the Reformed Salem church for fifty years. She was at one time a teacher in the Sunday School and after wards a member of the Salem Bible class organized by the late Rudolph F. Keller. She worked enthusiastically with the ladies auxiliary board of the Young Men's Christian Association for the new building at Second and Locust streets and was long interested in the prison work. During the World's Fair she was matron of the Pennsylvania building at the White City. Surviving her are three sisters, Mrs. Emma Schaffner of Carlisle, Mrs. Lydia Maus of Frizletown, Carroll county, Md., and Miss Ellen L. Gutelius, who has long been associated with her in business.

HENRY J. WADDLE died at his home in Fairfield Tuesday, Aug. 6, aged 71 years and 9 days. He was a veteran of the Civil War, having served for nine months as a private in Co. E, 125th Pennsylvania Volunteers and later as sergeant in Company D, 11th Maryland. He was twice married, first to Mary Jane Overholzer, on July 4, 1867. She died September 9, 1878. From this union on son survives, Harvey Waddle of Hanover, on Oct. 13, 1881, he married Anna Elizabeth Connor, who survives with one son and daughter, J. Blaine Waddle, of Fairfield, and Mrs. Clarence Musselman of Hamilton township. He also leaves one brother, Harvey Waddle of Chicago. Mr. Waddle was engaged in the produce business at Emmitsburg after the war and later engaged in the same business at Fairfield, which he continued until about eighteen months ago when he sold the business to his son, J. B. Waddle. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. W. K. Fleck on last Thursday, with interment in the Union cemetery, Fairfield.

Miss JOHN PROSSER died at her home in Mt. Holly Springs on Friday, Aug. 2, from heart trouble aged 64 years and 25 days. Death was sudden while on a visit to a neighbor. After eating dinner she was sitting on a chair talking when she fell over dead. She is survived by her husband, one daughter, Mrs. Harry L. Junkins of Latimore township, and three sons, Henry of Washington, D. C., Lewis and Calvin of Harrisburg. Mrs. Prosser was well known in northern part of county having been a resident of Latimore township for a number of years. She was a kind and faithful wife and a good mother, and was very highly respected and loved by all who knew her. Funeral was held from her late home on Tuesday of last week with services and interment at Franklin Church near Clear Springs. Rev. L. W. Trostle of Dillsburg conducted the services.

Miss TILLIE SLAYBAUGH, daughter of William Slaybaugh, deceased, died at the home of her niece, Mrs. C. E. Lawver in Idaville on Friday morning at 10.45, aged 82 years, 1 month and 13 days. Haldeaman of Philadelphia, James W. Haldeaman of Biglerville.

MRS. JAMES WASHBURN, the three year old son of Mrs. Georgia Washburn, living on the J. B. Twining farm north of town died on Monday of last week. The body was taken to Delta, Mrs. Washburn's home for interment.

Story of Shooting in N. G. P. Camp

The shooting in the camp of the First Regiment of the National Guard during their last night in camp may get into the courts of this county. The injured man says the shooting was accidental and does not want any prosecution. His companions disagree about the facts and Colonel Idell wants to get at the truth.

Charles D. Law, 21 years old, private of Co. C, First Regiment, is at the German Hospital in Philadelphia, with a wound in the groin as told in our last issue. The first operation was without avail to stop the hemorrhages, and a second operation was performed twelve hours after the first and the bleeding was finally stopped. If blood poisoning does not set in Law is expected to recover.

Law's statement of accident is as follows:

"I was dozing in my tent the night of the accident but I was awakened by Langdon and Bartley coming in. I was lying on the ground on a blanket between the two cots occupied by Langdon and Bartley. I saw Langdon pick up his gun and I told him to put it down as it might be loaded. It went off while I was saying this and the wad from the blank cartridge struck me in the groin.

I ran out of the tent screaming with pain and fell into the arms of a comrade, Bow Warren, who picked me up and carried me to the regimental hospital. Dr. Trumbull and a young surgeon by the name of Scatter operated on me but the bleeding did not stop and twelve hours later I was removed to the field hospital where the stitches were removed and I was sewed up again and the bleeding finally stopped.

Yes, Langdon shot me, but it was an accident and I have no hard feelings against him only he has not been up to see me since I have been lying here. Captain Drew and some of my comrades have been here."

Langdon in a statement said: "If Law says I shot him he tells what is not true. I did not and furthermore I am not interested in the affair at all. I admit I was drinking the night of the accident and Bartley did too although he does not drink when at home, but neither of us was intoxicated. When I came in the tent Law was lying on my cot and on my gun. I did not say anything as he appeared to be asleep, so Bartley and I prepared for bed. I let Law sleep on my cot and I "hunked" on the ground on a blanket between the two cots.

Then we both fell asleep. It must have been two hours later when I heard the muffled report of a gun and someone jumped right on my stomach. I looked up and saw Law running out of the tent. I followed him and saw him fall at the end of the street. The reason I did not tell my family is because I knew they would take me out of the regiment, for they did not want me to join in the first place. The matter is a closed incident as far as I am concerned.

Bartley said that he was asleep at the time also and heard a muffled report and he saw Law run out of the tent screaming. He said that he was sleepy and as the matter seemed trivial he turned over on his side and went to sleep again and did not know of the accident until Captain Drew awoke him.

Major Turnbull, a staff physician at the German Hospital and surgeon of the First Regiment, says that the gun was discharged from above and that it would be almost impossible for a man to shoot himself accidentally while lying asleep.

If the accident does not get into our local court in any way, it is altogether likely that the matter will not be dropped but that Col. Idell will probe it and when he has learned the truth take action, for the carrying of blank cartridges is against the rules of the Guards. It was said on good authority that immediately after the shooting Major Hunt examined Langdon's gun and although he could not smell smoke or discharged powder a shell was in the rifle and it had been exploded. There is a strict rule against the carrying of blank cartridges in guns after the general day's work, such as sham battles, hikes, etc. The men are lined up outside the tent and a major goes down the line and examines every rifle for blank cartridges that might have been left in them. The guns had been inspected that night very carefully.

CORNER STONE EXERCISES

BIGLERVILLE REFORMED CONGREGATION LAY CORNER STONE

Corner Stone of Rebuilt Reformed Church of New Oxford Laid with Appropriate Services

On Sunday morning, August 4, at 10 o'clock, the corner stone of the new Trinity Reformed Church at Biglerville was laid with interesting and inspiring services.

In the presence of a large number of people, the pastor, the Rev. Theodore C. Hesson, conducted the liturgical service placed the different articles in the niche and formally laid the stone, after which Mr. N. E. Roth placed and secured the same.

In the adjoining Stouffer grove the remainder of the service was held when the Rev. Dr. D. B. Lady made an excellent address. The Revs. G. William Millar of the Lutheran church at Wrightsville and A. G. Hummer of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Anderson, Mo., were present and took part in the service.

The articles placed in the niche were as follows: The Bible; the names of the persons constituting the committee appointed by Reuder's congregation in January, 1910 to choose the site for the edifice; duplicate copy of the petition, signed by forty-nine persons, to Gettysburg Classis to be organized as a congregation May 13th, 1912; a copy of the minutes of Gettysburg Classis; duplicate copy of the minutes of the meeting held by a committee of Gettysburg Classis, consisting of the Revs. W. A. Korn, Ph. D. and A. S. Dechant and Elder S. H. Rebert, when the congregation was organized May 31st, 1912 in the Thomas Hall; the names of the building committee and the contractors, and those who took part in the exercises; copy of the Reformed Church Messenger and of the county papers, The Gettysburg Times, The Star and Sentinel, The Gettysburg Compiler and The Adams County Independent.

The church will be of brick and will cost about $6000.00 half of which is provided for, to date.

Corner Stone of School Building

On Sunday, July 28th the corner stone of the new school building and hall of the immaculate Conception parish, in New Oxford, was laid with simple but impressive ceremonies. The members of the parish met in the church where the choir sang the "Veni Creator." From the church to the school building there was a procession of the altar boys, school children, members of the parish and visiting clergy. The corner stone was blessed and placed by Bishop Shanahan, of Harrisburg, assisted by Father Huber, of Hanover, and Father McIlhenny, of Boonville. The mechanics who assisted in placing the stone were the venerable Isaac Pottoff, of New Chester, and Henry Moore, of Seven Hundred, masons, and contractor William Elmer, of Littlestown.

Bishop Shanahan preached the sermon and spoke of the necessity of religious education. "Education is not the development of one faculty to the detriment of the other, but it is the training, the development of the whole man, the moral qualities as well as the intellectual qualities. Education without religion is vain and useless. All educators of the present day see the necessity of this religious training, especially since principles, which strike at heart of society, and liberty are so rife."

The new building will be a thorough modern school building, equipped with all the latest improvements.

Corner Stone of Church.

In the presence of a large concourse of people and with beautiful and impressive services the corner stone of the new building of the Reformed church of New Oxford was laid last Sunday, July 28. The ministers present were, Rev. Dr. C. E. Wehler, of Frederick, Md.; Revs. M. J. Roth, S. P. Mauzer and A. S. Dechant, pastors of the Hanover Reformed churches; Rev. W. H. Miller, of East Berlin, and Rev. C. W. Baker, of the New Oxford Lutheran congregation, and Dr. W. A. Korn the pastor of the church. Splendid addresses were made by Revs. Dr. Wehler and Dechant. All the ministers present participated in the services. The New Oxford Band played several sacred selections and the choir of the congregation sang a chant and a hymn. The pastor, Rev. W. A. Korn, Ph. D. and Rev. S. P. Nauget conducted the corner stone laying service. Contractor William Elmer and John Myers and George Grim put the stone in place. The beautiful stone is a gift to the congregation by Messrs. E. G. and H. E. Lough. The copper box put into it was made and presented by H. B. Fair. The following articles were placed into the stone:—a copy of the minutes of the Synod of the Potomac, a copy of the minutes of Gettysburg Classis, a copy of the Heidelberg Catechism, The Reformed Church Messenger, The Reformed Church Record, The Christian World, The New Oxford Item, the financial report of 1911 of the congregation and Sunday school, the autographs of the Consistory which is the building committee, the autographs of the architect, the contractors, the masons, carpenters and other workmen, a bottle of communion wine, a list of the contents in the former corner stone box, a proof set of the silver and minor coins minted in this current year; also a two cent piece of 1864 and a 3 cent piece of 1867 presented by Mr. W. F. Sheely the names of the donors of the corner stone and box, and a program of the corner stone laying service and names of the participating ministers.

Protection Fattens Trusts.

John Moody, editor of Moody's Magazine, a financial monthly has gathered the facts showing that trusts have grown from 38, representing 672 plants in 1897 with a capitalization of $1,419, 428,500.00 to 224 trusts in 1911 representing 4,426 plants with a capitalization of $8,066,290,861.

"Industrial combinations in the great majority of cases, have been formed primarily for the purpose of controlling or advancing prices to the consumer. While the theory has been persistently urged for many years that the main purpose of combination was to reduce producing and operating costs, and thus increase profits with out the advancement of prices, the records shown during the entire trust era go to prove that such has not been the case. The great enlargement in profits has for the most part been accomplished by price advances and not by cost curtailment."

Mr. Moody's idea is that a protective tariff, particularly the Dingley tariff, and not any natural or evolutionary tendency toward business centralization, is to blame for the growth of the trusts.

"It is a noteworthy fact that the capital represented by industrial trusts in this country does not reflect except to partial extent, the investment of money or property. While no exact figures on the subject are obtainable, it is reliably estimated that not more than 25 per cent. of the eight billions of capitalization represents original investment. The remaining 75 per cent is what is commonly called "water" but is what is more definitely described as the 'capitalization' of earning power." For industrial trusts, like franchise trusts, railroad trusts, etc., have all adopted the method during the past generation of capitalizing not only the original and current investment in the plants and property but also the net profits which can be shown.

Thus it is apparent that in the case of those trusts which have been built up chiefly on tariff benefits, a large part of the net profits shown, and in some cases two-thirds or three-fourths of the profits, are the direct result of the protective legislation which they have received.

The Steel trust's dividends on its "water," Mr. Moody asserts, have been altogether taken out of advances in prices of the trust's products.

Route of Trolley Extension.

The route of the extension of the Hanover and McSherrystown trolley to New Oxford is set out in the papers filed as follows:

Beginning at a point on private lands in the township of Conowingo in the county of Adams and state of Pennsylvania, which point is approximately forty feet east from the centre of Plum Creek (which said point is a point of connection with the present line of railway of the Hanover & McSherrystown Street Railway Company now constructed), and extending thence in a generally northwardly and northeastwardly direction through said township of Conowingo in Adams county, Pennsylvania, over and upon private property acquired or to be acquired by this company to a point in the center of Conowingo Creek (crossing Plum Creek by a private bridge to be constructed by this company and crossing over the public road leading from the McSherrystown-Mt. Rock road to Irishtown); thence crossing said Conowingo Creek over and upon a private bridge to be constructed by the said street railway company, said Conowingo Creek being the dividing line between the township of Conowingo aforesaid and the township of Mt. Pleasant in Adams county, Pennsylvania; extending thence in a generally northwestwardly and northwardly direction through said township of Mt. Pleasant over and upon private property acquired or to be acquired by this company to a point in Conowingo Creek, the dividing line between the said township of Mt. Pleasant and the township of Oxford in Adams county, Pennsylvania, (crossing over the public road leading from Edgemoor to Lilly's Mill); thence crossing over said creek by a private bridge to be constructed by this company and extending thence in a generally northeastwardly direction in said township of Oxford over and upon private property acquired or to be acquired by this company to a point on the southern boundary line of the borough of New Oxford, Adams county, Pennsylvania, which said southern boundary line is the dividing line between the said township of Oxford and the said borough of New Oxford (crossing over the public road leading from Irishtown to Mt. Rock; the public road running through Irishtown and the public road leading from New Oxford to Irishtown); thence in a generally northwardly direction in said borough of New Oxford over and upon private property acquired or to be acquired by this company to a point on High street in the said borough of New Oxford at the intersection of said High street by Bolton street in said borough; thence in said borough of New Oxford crossing said High Street and over, upon and along said Bolton Street in said borough in a northwardly direction to a point in Pitt Street in said borough at the intersection of said Pitt Street with said Bolton Street; thence in an eastwardly direction over, upon and along said Pitt Street to the western boundary line of the public square in said borough of New Oxford; and thence returning over the same route thus forming a continuous and complete circuit, which extension or branch is of the approximate length of three and eighty-five hundredths (3.855) miles and is wholly within the County of Adams and State of Pennsylvania.

Paper Money to be Smaller.

The size of all United States currency and national bank notes probably will be reduced by one-third and their designs revolutionized by Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh for the sake of economies to the government, convenience to the public and safety against counterfeiting. This decision practically has been reached by the secretary.

It is proposed to make the dimensions 6 by 2 1-2 inches. The paper money now in circulation measures 7.28 by 3.04 inches. The designs of all paper money—United States notes and certificates and national bank notes—would be systematized and made uniform for every denomination.

This move is expected to save the government about $900,000 annually and the national banks which pay for the plates for their notes and part of the cost of redemption, about $200,000. The economies would be effected in steel for the plates, in paper and in labor.

For many months the only deterrent to the step by executive authority has been the belief that it would be necessary for congress to appropriate about $1,000,000 to replace the national bank note plates, which have been paid for by the national banks. This problem has been solved by a plan to have the general design of all national bank notes uniform, requiring only one engraved plate for each denomination and to place on the notes by surface printing the name, location and character number of the bank. This would do away with separate plates for each bank.

Eighteen months would be required to effect the change by the preparation of the designs, engraving of the plates and printing of the notes. To meet the objection that, for a time at least there would be two sizes of currency in circulation, it has been suggested that the government print in advance a sufficient quantity of the notes of the new size to be exchanged at the subtreasuries and national banks on a fixed date. The change could be substantially accomplished within a few days, treasury officials believe.

There are now 19 different designs of currency. The change would reduce these to nine. Each denomination would be characterized by a distinctively American historical portrait engraved in the center of the note. In time the portrait would be a distinguishing feature of each denomination and would be a safeguard against raising of a note to a higher denomination.

The department is considering using portraits are follows: $1 note, Washington; $2, Jefferson; $5, Lincoln; $10, Cleveland; $20, Jackson; $50, Grant; $100, Franklin; $500, Chase; $1,000, Hamilton.

"RICHMOND" Suction Cleaner

IN YOUR OWN HOME 5 DAYS FREE

We want every woman in America to have the opportunity to try the "RICHMOND" Suction Cleaner in her own home. And to show our unbounded confidence in the machine, we've decided to send it out on 5 days free trial.

Use it as much as you like. Clean your carpets and rugs, your upholstery, curtains, walls, ceilings, mattresses, pillows, etc.

See for yourself how it makes everything as bright and new as the day it was bought. See how it cleans without raising a particle of dust, how it makes after dusting unnecessary.

Watch it get the dirt from under heavy furniture behind radiators and from other inaccessible places.

Try the nine special attachments which we furnish with every machine—the hair-drying tool, the tools for cleaning clothes, book-shelves, etc

"RICHMOND" Suction Cleaner

Compare this easy, pleasant method of cleaning with the disagreeable backaching drudgery of brooms, mops and dusters.

Put the machine in every test you can think of.

Then at the end of 5 days if you are willing to part with the machine simply notify us and we'll send for it.

On the other hand if you wish to keep the machine you can pay for it on Easy Monthly Payments out of the actual money which the machine saves for you.

A liberal discount will be allowed those who pay cash.

The experience of most purchasers is that the "RICHMOND" Suction Cleaner pays for itself in from twelve to thirty months.

It pays for itself, first, because it does away with the annual or semi-annual tear up called housecleaning (and housecleaning costs more than you think unless you have figured it out).

It pays for itself, second, because it doubles and trebles the life of floor coverings, hangings, furniture, wall paper, decorations, etc.

The "RICHMOND" Suction Cleaner weighs but 70 pounds. It can easily be carried upstairs, downstairs anywhere without the least fatigue. It is a truly portable cleaner.

A "RICHMOND" is built with a view to long durability and we cover it with the broadest possible guarantee. It is simple in construction. There is nothing to wear out. There are no gears, no diaphragms, no valves. Nothing to jiggle loose. To operate, simply attach to any electric lamp socket. Costs about one cent per hour to operate.

Surely you must see that the "RICHMOND" Suction Cleaner must give perfect service, perfect satisfaction, day after day, month after month, 'else we could not afford this offer.

But don't take our word for it. Find out for yourself. Try a machine at our risk. It doesn't make good—it it doesn't more than come up to your expectations, simply tell us to take it away. Could anything be more fair?

Remember it costs you nothing if you decide to keep the machine. All we ask is that $1.00 be deposited with us as evidence of good faith and to keep away triflers. The $1.00 will be refunded in case the machine is returned.

Prices Range from $40.00 to $85.00.

Mail the coupon and get full particulars. Do it now while you're thinking of it.

HAPPY THO' MARRIED?

There are unhappy married lives, but a large percentage of these unhappy homes are due to the illness of the wife, mother or daughter. The feelings of nervousness, the befogged mind, the ill-temper, the pale and wrinkled face, hollow and circled eyes, result most often from those disorders peculiar to women. For the woman to be happy and good-looking she must naturally have good health. Dragging-down feelings, hysteria, hot-flashes or constantly returning pains and aches—are too great a drain upon a woman's vitality and strength. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription restores weak and sick women to sound health by regulating and correcting the local disorders which are generally responsible for the above distressing symptoms.

Mrs. Dickover

"I suffered greatly for a number of years and for the past three years was so bad that life was a misery to me," writes Mrs. B. F. Dickover, of Ufida, Ohio, Route 4. "The doctors told me I would have to go to a hospital before I would ever be better. A year ago this winter and spring I was worse than ever before. At each period I suffered like one in torment. I was the mother of six children. I was so bad for five months that I knew something must be done, so I wrote to Dr. R. V. Pierce, telling him as nearly as I could how I suffered. He outlined a course of treatment which I followed to the letter. I took two bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and one of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and a fifty-cent bottle of 'Smart-Weed' and have never suffered much since. I wish I could tell every suffering woman the world over what a boon Dr. Pierce's medicines are. There is no use wasting time and money doctoring with anything else or any one else."

The Medical Adviser by R. V. Pierce, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y., answers hosts of delicate questions about which every woman, single or married ought to know. Sent free on receipt of 31 stamps to pay for wrapping and mailing only.

ARENDSVILLE RECITAL

THE NEW ORGAN IN REFORMED CHURCH DEDICATED.

The Organ Was Half Paid for by Andrew Carnegie and Half by the Congregation.

An audience that tested the capacity of Zion's Reformed Church of Arendtsville assembled to hear a recital on the new $1300 Moller organ of which the congregation feels justly proud. The recital was given by Mr. Hower F. Rebert, who is organist of the First Reformed church, Lancaster, Pa. and a nephew of the pastor Rev. T. C. Hesson, and took place on Friday evening, Aug. 2nd. The program in full was as follows:

Organ—Third Sonata in C Minor
 Gavotte from Mignon A. Thomas
 Reverie Homer F. Rebert
 Violin—Thais Massenet
 Organ—Andante in G E. Baiste
 Fugue in Bb J. S. Bach
 Meditation J. Frank Frysinger
 Violin—Legende Wieniawski
 Organ—Caprice Ralph Kinder
 From Greenland's Icy Mountains F. James

Violin—Salut'd Amour Elgar
 Organ—Fanfare J. Lemmens
 At Twilight J. Frank Frysinger
 Grand Choeur in A. Ralph Kinder
 From the dignity and impressiveness of Guitman's Third Sonata, the audience was carried in pleasing variations through the buoyant strains of the Gavotte from Mignon, and the delightfully familiar Andante in G from Batiste to a labyrinth of delights in his interpretation of one of Bach's Fugues; Reverie, one of Mr. Rebert's compositions, well deserved the name, the sweet harmony captivating the audience, F. James interpretation of "From Greenland's Icy Mountains"; Fanfare by Lemmens and the grand chœur in A. by Ralph Kinder gave a pleasant conclusion to a delightful musical treat. Worthy of special mention is Frysinger's "At Twilight" which under the master touch of Mr. Rebert carried one away into the realm of delightful meditation.

Mr. J. R. Shepley, violinist of Harrisburg, Pa., who assisted Mr. Rebert made a lasting impression upon his hearers. His rendition of Massenet's Thais and Legende by Wieniawski were with a tone and technique which give evidence of a rising genius. Elgar's Salut'd Amour, his third and last number fully portrayed the depth and tenderness of the soloist's musical temperament.

A Francis Scott Key Monument.

Congressman J. Charles Linthicum, of Baltimore, recently launched a movement in Congress, for the erection of a $50,000 monument at Fort McHenry to the memory of Francis Scott Key, author of "The Star-Spangled Banner," and the heroic men who repelled the assault of the British fleet on that fort. His bill directs the Secretary of War to have erected the memorial. It is proposed to place the monument at a point where it will be seen by passengers on all steamers passing up and down the harbor.

"I do not think our national Government could engage in a more patriotic and commendable undertaking than to erect a monument to the memory of Francis Scott Key, the author of 'The Star-Spangled Banner,' and to those who repelled the historic assault of the British fleet on Fort McHenry," said Mr. Linthicum.

"Key was a distinct benefactor of his country, for it has inspired the veteran now gray with age, and will continue to move the patriotism of generations yet to come. It is therefore most appropriate that on the now peaceful ramparts of the old fort, over whose walls at the fade of day Key got the last glimpse of his country's flag, there should arise to his memory and that of the gallant men who defended the fort, a monument suitably testifying the grateful recognition of their countrymen."

Gettysburg will be specially interested in any memorial to Francis Scott Key, who practiced law in this place for several years soon after the formation of county.

The Carlisle Fair.

We have received a copy of the Premium list of the Cumberland County Fair, published from the office of the "Carlisle Sentinel," which reflects much credit upon the publisher as well as the advertising Committee of the Fair. It contains the large and liberal list of premiums to be given. The fair will be held September 21, 25, 26 and 27, 1912, on the grounds at Carlisle, and the management is sparing neither time nor money to have this Fair's exhibits and attractions far exceed any previous Fairs held in Cumberland county. Arrangements are being completed for a first-class aeroplane exhibit, besides many other amusing attractions. Racing purses aggregate $4600 and other premiums offered make a total of $10,000.

Typhoid in Wells.

The rural sections, long considered ideal so far as concerns the health of their inhabitants, have been dealt a blow by physician investigators who maintain that two-thirds of the cases of typhoid fever in the city owe their origin to insanitary conditions in the country and to polluted water supplies.

Farms, which are generally remote from towns, cities, or other areas of congested population, would seem to be almost ideally situated for obtaining pure and wholesome water, but in reality polluted water is exceedingly common on them and typhoid fever rates are usually greater in country districts than in cities. Typhoid fever is now almost universally believed to be transmitted solely through drink or food taken into the stomach, and is especially liable to be communicated by polluted waters obtained from shallow wells near spots where the discharges of typhoid patients have been thrown upon the ground and subsequently carried down through the soil and to the wells, and it is doubtless principally this fact that accounts for the disease being so common in farming regions.

On a great many farms the well is located at a point that may be convenient to the dwelling, without any regard for the possibility of the pollution of the well water through seepage from barn or cesspool or through water underground. Information relating to the underground movement of water is particularly valuable, and on this account the United States Geological Survey is distributing a report on the subject—"Water-Supply Paper 225—"Underground Waters for Farm Use," by Myron L. Fuller. The demand for this publication has necessitated a third reprint. A copy of the report may be obtained by addressing the Director of the Survey at Washington, D. C.

How to Dust.

When you clean a room, it is not enough to stir up the dust. You must remove it. When you brush a feather duster over a desk or a chair, you merely scatter the dust. Soon it settles and you have your work to do over again. In the meantime, while the dust is in the air, you are probably breathing it into your lungs, irritating your nose and throat and putting yourself in danger of catarrh.

Don't use a feather duster. Take a soft, dry cloth when you dust and shake it frequently out of the window. Another method is to use slightly moistened cloths, rinsing them out in water when you have finished.

It is hard to sweep a room without raising dust. If you can afford it, buy a vacuum cleaner. The next best thing in sweeping a carpet is to moisten a newspaper, tear it into scraps and scatter these upon the floor. The damp pieces of paper will catch the dust. Sprinkle moist sawdust on bare floors. This will prevent the stirring up of much dust when you sweep. Neither paper nor sawdust should be dripping wet—only moist.

Remember that the idea in sweeping and dusting is to remove the dust—not to stir it up—and act accordingly.—Karl de Schweinitz, Executive Secretary, Pennsylvania Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis.

"The Philadelphia Record" is offering a handsome photograph of Governor Woodrow Wilson, of New Jersey, the Democratic candidate for President, to all persons who subscribe to that paper for four months daily, or who renew their subscriptions for an equal period. A four months' subscription order costs $1.00, payable in advance. The picture is well worth framing. When you subscribe, specify whether the picture is desired.

Poultry Show at Biglerville.

The Adams County Poultry Association will give their first exhibit in the B. F. Batterman Building, at Biglerville on January 6, 7 and 8, and it is expected by all reports received that their will be a large exhibit of chickens, ducks, turkeys, pigeons and all kinds of fowls.

The Executive Committee is making preparations to have the show on an equal with the other shows of the state.

Mr. Chas. T. Cornman of Carlisle and editor of "The Poultry Items," has been secured to do the judging.

The Adams County Farmers Institute will be held in the Thomas Bros. Hall in Biglerville, Jan. 6 and 7. Mr. W. Theo. Wittman of Allentown will lecture on Poultry for the Institute. It is expected to secure Mr. Wittman to assist in judging. These two men are the best authority on poultry we have in the state.

The farmers should arrange to attend the Show and Institute as Poultry is one of Adams County greatest industries from which they have received in this county during March, April and May for eggs alone more than $100,000 which is practically all profit to the farmer during these months.

There will be an exhibit of Adams County Apples in connection with the show.

For information inquire of O. C. Rice or J. Hoke Slaybaugh of Biglerville.

NASAL CATARRH, an inflammation of the delicate membrane lining the air passages, is not cured by any mixtures taken into the stomach. Don't waste time on them. Rhodes Scholarship.

Announcement has been made that the next qualifying examination for scholars in the United States under the Rhodes bequest will be held in October. The selection of the scholars will be completed before the first of January, 1913, and those elected will begin residence at Oxford in October of next year. No scholarship was open this year, but there will be one in 1913, 1914, 1915 and 1917, every third year being omitted. The emolument is $300, or $15 each year for three years.

The examinations for what is the greatest chance American students get to study abroad are held in each state and territory to which scholarships are assigned at centers fixed by the local committee of selection. The examination is not competitive, but

The Rhodes scholars will be selected from candidates who have successfully passed this qualifying examination. One scholar will be chosen for each state and territory to which scholarships are assigned.

A candidate must be unmarried and must be a citizen of the United States with at least five years domicile. He must have passed his nineteenth birthday, but not his twenty-fifth birthday, by October 1 of the year for which he may be elected.

TRAVELED AS YOUNG LADY

Miss Six-Year-Old Fully Conscious of the Dignity That Henceforth Was Hers.

Looking much like a pretty picture in colors that had stepped right out of a fashion plate a dainty little miss stood on a street crossing in Yonkers and signaled a motorman to stop his car. He brought it to a halt so the child would not have to walk in the muddy street and the conductor helped her up the high step, for the small traveler was alone. More than that, he refrained from jerking the bellows until she was seated, so she was not thrown off her feet at the sudden turning on of electric power. But she was short of stature and was obliged to sit on the edge of the seat to let her legs hang down, for otherwise they would have stuck out straight. Selecting a nickel from a tiny purse she extracted from her white fur muff, she extended it to the conductor when he came along. He gave her 2 cents change.

"You'll soon be a young lady and pay full fare," he said, with an attempt at gallantry.

Up went a little hand, holding the two pennies between finger and thumb. The conductor was puzzled, until the child spoke.

"I don't want any change," she explained. "Mamma says I'm a young lady now, 'cause I'm 6 years old today."

With an indulgent smile the conductor took the coins.—New York Press.

SPANISH JEWS IN NEW YORK

Ten Thousand of That Race and Faith Known to Be Residents of the Metropolis.

Almost unknown to the general community is the steadily increasing immigration into New York of Spanish speaking Jews from the Orient. It is estimated that these descendants of the Jewry expelled from the Iberian peninsula over 400 years ago now number about 10,000 in New York city.

Others are spreading abroad throughout the country, and a body of these Jews who have clung so faithfully to their Spanish tongue held religious services according to their own minhag last Rosh Hashbona so far west as Portland, Ore.

In New York they are at least numerous enough to support two newspapers printed in Ladino-Spanish in Hebrew characters, one appearing weekly, entitled L'America, edited by H. S. Gadol, the other a daily paper entitled El Aguila, edited by Mr. Mizrahi.

This immigration has become so considerable that the Hebrew Sheltering and Immigration Aid society has recently been compelled to form an Oriental bureau, through which the immigrant Jew speaking Spanish, Greek, Turkish, Arabic or Sephardic Hebrew can receive proper care.

Comedy in Maryland's Senate.

"Down at Annapolis the other day the legislators had a bit of comedy furnished them that does not ordinarily enter into the deliberations of a legislative body," remarked Charles Hamilton of Baltimore at the Raleigh.

"It seems that Senator Blair Lee, who was a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination last year, started to dress in evening attire to attend the reception given by Governor Goldsborough. He was impatient, the story goes, and in attempting to fasten his collar lost his only collar button. He looked around his room for an hour, and when he recovered the lost button it was mashed so that it could not be used. The senator had trod on it. He finally succeeded in borrowing one, but when he got to the governor's reception most of the guests had departed.

"One of Senator Lee's friends heard of the occurrence, and he rose in the senate and with the severest dignity offered a resolution. It provided for an appropriation sufficient to purchase a gross of collar buttons for Senator Lee 'that he might in the future be in time at official functions.'"
